one of the most controversial contemporary debates on the concept of health is the clash between the views of naturalists and normativists naturalists argue that although health can be valued or disvalued the concept of health is itself objective and value

free in contrast normativists argue that health is a contextual and value laden concept and that there is no possibility of a value free understanding of health this debate has fueled many of the often very acrimonious disputations arising from the claims of health disease and disability activists and charities and the public policy responses to them in responding to this debate ananth both surveys the existing literature with special focus on the work of christopher boorse and argues that a naturalistic concept of health drawing on evolutionary considerations associated with biological function homeostasis and species design is defensible without jettisoning norms in their entirety the most neglected sector of kant s critical philosophy is his collection of remarks about biological phenomena in the second part of the critique of judgment the critique of teleological judgment the reasons for this are numerous but since in kant everything comes in threes a three fold collection will suffice the critique of teleological judgment itself is one reason more than most of his writings this segment of the critical corpus suffers from what can most charitably be termed mistakes of exposition in this part of the third critique it is commonplace to find sub arguments in kant s general position somewhere other than their logical niche the result is that the general theme behind his remarks about living phenomena is obscured this difficulty has done much to discourage even the most enthusiastic of kant admirers from investing their time on this work secondly in this century until very recently there has been little interest in philosophical questions about biology twenty one out of thirty one sections of the critique of teleological judgment sections 61 and 63 83 deal either directly or indirectly with issues of interest in the philosophy of biology finally the critique of teleological judgment has been placed among the last on that list of writings thought to formulate kant s critical system this is not merely because of its temporal position
