literary nonfiction literary criticism and history women's studies we can fight back and counter the multi directional attacks on multicultural education in literary studies by creating responsible sound and cohesive pedagogy controversies come with the academic territory but if we allow the conflicts to overwhelm the objectives of our teaching we pave the way for multiculturalism to be merely a passing fad rather than a permanent foundation for liberal education we need to get beyond internal us versus them rhetorics of hate to have any hope for our students to get beyond these mentalities in the real world beyond our classrooms from teaching at the crossroads this book offers college and high school teachers a useful set of strategies for teaching literature by women of color providing a comprehensive framework that connects criticism to pedagogy author laurie grobman provides a much needed practical guide for teachers who want to introduce their students to multiple literary traditions in a culturally sensitive and theoretically informed manner highly accessible and designed for practical use teaching at the crossroads is an ideal book for teachers of american literature women's literature multicultural literature and world literature it is also ideal for english education courses that include training for diverse literatures by women includes sample class plans and discussion questions the short story has been a staple of american literature since the nineteenth century taught in virtually every high school and consistently popular among adult readers but what makes a short story unique in reading for storyness susan lohafer former president of the society for the study of the short story argues that there is much more than length separating short stories from novels and other works of fiction with its close readings of stories by kate chopin julio cortázar katherine mansfield and others this book challenges assumptions about the short story and effectively redefines the genre in a fresh and original way in her analysis lohafer combines traditional literary theory with a more unconventional mode of research monitoring the reactions of readers as they progress through a story to establish a new poetics of the genre singling out the phenomenon of imminent closure as the genre's defining trait she then proceeds to identify preclosure points or places where a given story could end in order to access hidden layers of the reading experience she expertly harnesses this theory of preclosure to explore interactions between pedagogy and theory formalism and cultural studies fiction and nonfiction returning to the roots of storyness lohafer illuminates the intricacies of classic short stories and experimental forms of surreal postmodern and minimalist fiction she also discusses the impact of social constructions such as gender on the identification of preclosure points by individual readers reading for storyness combines cognitive science with literary theory to present a compelling argument for the uniqueness of the short story this is the first full length study of zola's practice as a novelist although zola's literary achievement has been revalued in the last 25 years critical attention has been concentrated on the contrast between his work's realistic dimension and its poetic power now the balance is redressed by this study of zola as a craftsman most of the ten specially commissioned chapters in this book are concerned with its great saga of les rougon macquart in each zola's techniques are related to problems on genre and representation and several relate his techniques to those used in contemporary melodrama journalism and impressionist painting
