in this book professor jeanine grenberg defends the idea that kant s virtue theory is best understood as a system of eudaemonism indeed as a distinctive form of eudaemonism that makes it preferable to other forms of it a system of what she calls deontological eudaemonism in deontological eudaemonism one achieves happiness both rationally conceived as non felt pleasure in the virtually unimpeded harmonious activity of one's will and choice and empirically conceived as pleasurable fulfilment of one's desires only via authentic commitment to and fulfilment of what is demanded of all rational beings making persons as such one's end in all things to tell this story of deontological eudaemonism grenberg first defends the notion that kant's deontological approach to ethics is simultaneously and indeed foundationally and most basically teleological she then shows that the realization of an aptitude for the virtuous fulfilment of one's obligatory ends provides the solid basis for simultaneous realization of happiness both rationally and empirically conceived along the way she argues both that kant's notion of happiness rationally conceived is essentially identical to aristotle's conception of happiness as unimpeded activity and that his notion of happiness empirically conceived is best realized via an unwavering commitment to the fulfilment of one's obligatory ends the contributors bring to bear an unrivaled enthusiasm and theoretical sweep on the entire hitchcock oeuvre analyzing movies such as rear window and psycho starting from the premise that everything has meaning the authors examine the films ostensible narrative content and formal procedures to discover a rich proliferation of hidden ideological and psychic mechanisms but hitchcock is also a bait to lure the reader into a serious marxist and lacanian exploration of the construction of meaning an extraordinary landmark in hitchcock studies this new edition features a brand new essay by philosopher slavoj Žižek presenter of sophie fiennes's three part documentary the pervert's guide to cinema this book returns to the question at the center of our existence a question that the narcissistic culture in which we are immersed systematically tends to remove why the underlying thesis is that the answer must not be sought in success or social recognition but in a fragment of truth hidden somewhere inside each of us which reveals itself only if we detach ourselves from our ego and its certainties it is not therefore a matter of finding yet another philosophical theory of the meaning of existence but rather of shedding light on the conditions under which such meaning can emerge the author shows us that the ultimate source of our existential orientation lies in the affective sphere and that the current crisis of orientation is derived from the atrophy of the process of affective maturation on a large scale and from a lack of knowledge and experience about which techniques are best to reactivate it we are like glowworms that had once unlearned how to illuminate and have since begun to hover around the magic lantern of the ascetic ideal already criticized by nietzsche and then around neon advertising signs we are glowworms that have forgotten that we have within our own affective structure a precious source of orientation the basic thesis is that this source of orientation can be reactivated through the care of desire and practices of emotional sharing both historical and contemporary contexts it serves as a seminal intervention into the debate over the causes and consequences of contemporary wars and global political conflicts as well as functioning as an accessible guide to the theoretical utilities of deleuzian thought for international relations in a manner that is very much lacking in current debates about it covering a wide array of topics this volume will provide a set of original contributions focussed in particular upon the contemporary nature of war the increased priorities afforded to the security imperative the changing designs of bio political regimes fascist aesthetics nihilistic tendencies and the modernist logic of finitude the politics of suicide the specific desires upon which fascism draws and of course the recurring pursuit of power an important contribution to the field this work will be of great interest to students and scholars of international relations fascism and international relations theory
