mining newspaper accounts memoirs and government reports kurzman proposes that the collective agent most directly responsible for democratization was the emerging class of modern intellectuals a group that had gained a global identity and a near messianic sense of mission following the dreyfus affair of 1898

in this startlingly counterintuitive book a leading authority on islamic movements demonstrates that terrorist groups are thoroughly marginal in the muslim world charles kurzman draws on government sources public opinion surveys election results and in depth interviews with muslims in the middle east and around the world finding that while young muslims are indeed angry at the west they are simply not attracted to terrorist methods this revised edition updated to include the self proclaimed islamic state concludes that fear of terrorism should be brought into alignment with the actual level of threat and that government policies and public opinion should be based on evidence rather than alarmist hyperbole an examination of state building class conflicts revolutions and fear of revolutions from the english civil war of the 1640s to the invasion of iraq in 2003 and the great recession from 2003 sheds new light on key topics and events and offers a fully substantiated argument about the interplay of bourgeois liberty and proletarian democracy this book sheds light on the history of political and religious globalisation in modern asia transcending both national and imperial boundaries while expanding the range of methodologies and sources brought to bear on studying asia s modernity it illuminates how ideas travelled across asia and how they changed in the process the first truly global history of revolutions and revolutionary waves in the modern age from atlantic revolutions to arab spring
