in consensus based interpretation of regional human rights treaties francisco pascual vives examines the central role played by the notion of consensus in the case law of the european and inter american courts of human rights as many other international courts and tribunals do both regional human rights courts resort to this concept while undertaking an evolutive interpretation of the rome convention and the pact of san josé respectively the role exerted by the notion of consensus in this framework can be used not only to understand the evolving character of the rights and freedoms recognized by these international treaties but also to reaffirm the international nature of these regional human rights courts

over the past sixty years the regional human rights systems have surpassed the un human rights bodies in affording protection to the victims of human rights violations most of these systems have courts that are empowered to issue legally binding judgments and reparations for violations of human rights which states have been unwilling to accord the un system the essays selected for this volume examine the structure and functioning of the principal regional human rights systems in the world today 1 the inter american commission and court of human rights 2 the european court of human rights 3 the african commission and court of human and peoples rights and 4 the asean intergovernmental human rights commission these systems guarantee primarily civil and political rights central to all four systems is the necessity of a democratic form of government to guarantee these rights although not all governments parties to these regional treaties are democracies these articles trace the history of these systems in particular the expansion of their membership to include almost all independent countries in the region and their evolution towards recognition of a right to democracy
