this study identifies and assesses the international labour standards that apply to rural employment it analyses international labour human rights and other instruments as regards the agriculture forestry and fisheries sector the general labour and employment laws of many countries do not necessarily take into account the special circumstances of those who work in the agriculture forestry and fisheries sectors whereas legislation governing these sectors tends not to integrate appropriate labour standards this becomes even more of a concern where there is a general weakness in inter sectoral and inter institutional coordination mechanisms this legislative study seeks to respond to these challenges by providing guidance on the integration of internationally accepted labour standards into national legislation in the agriculture forestry and fisheries sectors it identifies the standards that apply to these sectors and shows how they have been or could be integrated into regulatory frameworks governing organic production and other agricultural commodities contract farming pesticide management forestry fisheries and other related sectors the overall aim of the study is to improve relevant regulatory frameworks with regard to the protection of the rights of people who derive their livelihoods in these sectors taking a bottom up perspective this book explores local framings of a wide range of issues related to benefit sharing a growing concept in global environmental governance benefit sharing in environmental governance draws on original case studies from south africa namibia greece argentina and malaysia to shed light on what benefit sharing looks like from the local viewpoint these local level case studies move away from the idea of benefit sharing as defined by a single international organization or treaty rather they reflect different situations where benefit sharing has been considered including agriculture access to land and plants wildlife management and extractives industries common themes in the experiences of local communities form the basis for an exploration of spaces for local voices at the international level in the convention on biological diversity cbd often argued to be the most open arena to non state actors and therefore vital to how local voices may be included at the global level the book analyzes the decisions of the cbd parties to produce an in depth reflection on how this arena builds and delimits spaces for the expression of local community themes and paths for local community participation including community protocols the book then situates the bottom up findings in the wider debate about global civil society and deliberative democracy in environmental governance this interdisciplinary book will be of great interest to students and scholars of environmental politics environmental law political ecology and global governance as well as practitioners and policymakers involved in multilateral environmental agreements this book brings together the guidelines on issues relating to the negotiation of bilateral tax treaties formulated by the united nations ad hoc group of experts on tax treaties between developed and developing countries during their first seven meetings the first part contains an analytical and historical review of international double taxation and tax evasion and avoidance the annex to the manual reproduces the texts of the following model tax treaties league of nations mexico and london drafts andean countries and oecd as well as the nordic convention on administrative assistance in tax matters national sectoral and international approaches to environmental law education are integrated in this comprehensive resource on environmental law in asian and pacific countries a broader definition of sustainable development that incorporates social cultural and economic dimensions facilitates consideration of social justice and equity in environmental law the jurisprudence of environmental law is outlined with attention to impact assessment implementation and dispute resolution in this first volume
