a leading psychologist explains why nearly all of us including many of those who are persecuted and powerless so often defend the social systems that cause misery and injustice why do we so often defend the very social systems that are responsible for injustice and exploitation in a theory of system justification john jost argues that we are motivated to defend the status quo because doing so serves fundamental psychological needs for certainty security and social acceptance we want to feel good not only about ourselves and the groups to which we belong but also about the overarching social structure in which we live even when it hurts others and ourselves jost lays out the wide range of evidence for his groundbreaking theory and examines its implications for our communities and our democracy drawing on twenty five years of research he provides an accessible account of system justification theory and its insights system justification helps to explain deep contradictions including the feeling among some women that they don t deserve the same salaries as men and the tendency of some poor people to vote for policies that increase economic inequality the theory illuminates the most pressing social and political issues of our time why has it been so hard to combat anthropogenic climate change as well as some of the most intimate why do some black children prefer white dolls to black ones and why do some people stay in bad relationships jost s theory has far reaching implications and he offers numerous insights that political activists and social justice advocates can use to promote change the themes of the different papers in this book are related to five major areas of research first the book presents the work on a large scale assessment in vocational and occupational education and training reason was the work of frank achtenhagen and his colleagues on the preparation of a vet pisa which started in 2004 which has now become more and more a concrete program the contributions to this part of the book contain a project description and profound presentations and discussions of measurement and evaluation problems it reflects also the work of achtenhagen with respect to item response theory measurement and testing the second part of this book presents a unique endeavour of promoting vet research the swiss federal office for professional education and technology opet initiated a program of leading houses of vet which are dedicated to different important research topics this program might serve as example for comparable approaches in other countries the third part highlights central issues of research on learning processes curriculum theory and the use of technology here the work of achtenhagen on competence profile modelling competence measurement and instructional and curriculum designing is touched the fourth part stresses social and emotional learning as important aspects of vet learning the fifth part considers the political and institutional dimensions of vet research which have to be taken into account when an international large scale assessment of vet shall be getting started achtenhagen s work on learning at work leaning in economics and learning under the conditions of institutional modelling are discussed the whole book is a collection of central issues around a field that is not yet taken enough into consideration in educational research but pushed and supported by frank achtenhagen vet research he belongs to the founding fathers of it and this is why precisely the book reflects new trends and new concepts with respect to the question what can we educational psychologists and educational researchers learn from a rich and central research field the general aim of this book is to provide an elementary exposition of some basic concepts in terms of which both classical and non dassical logirs may be studied and appraised although quantificational logic is dealt with briefly in the last chapter the discussion is chiefly concemed with propo gjtional cakuli still the subject as it stands today cannot br covered in one book of reasonable length rather than to try to include in the volume as much as possible i have put emphasis on some selected topics even these could not be roverrd completely but for each topic i have attempted to present a detailed and precise t xposition of several basic results including some which are non trivial the roots of some of the central ideas in the volume go back to j luka siewicz s seminar on mathematicallogi intended as supplemental reading in courses on theories of development this book augments traditional core texts by providing students with more depth on about two dozen recent and emerging theories that have appeared over the past 20 years this period has seen a decline of the traditional grand theories that attempt to apply to all people all the time in favor of micro theories that focus more on individual differences so a book like this actually points the way toward the future rather than dryly reviewing the past in addition the author inspects the changing ways in which the concept of theory itself has been interpreted during this period and he concludes with a chapter suggesting future directions
