osho sees zen not as a historical spiritual tradition but as the future of a humanity that has matured to the point that people no longer need religions controlled by priesthoods and based on fearful superstitions that cripple people's innate intelligence and divide them from one another. This book offers a deeper understanding of the underlying differences between eastern and western approaches to religion and the nature of consciousness. It's a beautiful introduction to a world where each individual has the capacity for an instant and profound understanding of existence and a rebirth of the trust in life that each of us are born with. Dang dang doko dang represents the sound of the drum beaten by a zen master in an existential lesson for a disciple as well as symbolizing the poetic quality of zen. The title represents the special flavor of this collection of Osho's commentaries on well-known zen stories. This volume is part of the Osho Classics series and also includes Osho's responses to questions about the meditation technique of zazen.

What if you could live full and die with nothing left to give because you already gave it everything? Die with Hard is not just a book; it's a wake-up call, a bold blueprint for those who are tired of trading time for survival, chasing money without meaning and waiting for someday to start living inside you. You'll discover why most people die broke and unfulfilled and how to avoid it, how to turn smart work into real wealth, why fear is more expensive than failure, the secret to creating value people will pay for, how to define freedom on your own terms and live it now. No fluff, no jargon, just hard truth, smart strategies, and real talk for real people who want more out of life and are ready to earn it. You don't need to be perfect; you just need to be done with average work. Smart live, free die, empty start now before regret catches up.
