in how to kill a dragon calvert watkins follows the continuum of poetic formulae in indo european languages from old hittite to medieval irish he uses the comparative method to reconstruct traditional poetic formulae of considerable complexity that stretch as far back as the original common language thus watkins reveals the antiquity and tenacity of the indo european poetic tradition watkins begins this study with an introduction to the field of comparative indo european poetics he explores the saussurian notions of synchrony and diachrony and locates the various indo european traditions and ideologies of the spoken word further his overview presents case studies on the forms of verbal art with selected texts drawn from indic iranian greek latin hittite armenian celtic and germanic languages in the remainder of the book watkins examines in detail the structure of the dragon serpent slaying myths which recur in various guises throughout the indo european poetic tradition he finds the signature formula for the myth the divine hero who slays the serpent or overcomes adversaries occurs in the same linguistic form in a wide range of sources and over millennia including old and middle iranian holy books greek epic celtic and germanic sagas down to armenian oral folk epic of the last century watkins argues that this formula is the vehicle for the central theme of a proto text and a central part of the symbolic culture of speakers of the proto indo european language the relation of humans to their universe the values and expectations of their society therefore he further argues poetry was a social necessity for indo european society where the poet could confer on patrons what they and their culture valued above all else imperishable fame
