provides readers with a much needed cross cultural and multidisciplinary perspective on ecofeminist activism and scholarship. It is a very important contribution to the literature on ecological feminism. Ethics I think the unique collection of so many different perspectives will help to push readers out of their disciplinary views and work to bring theory and practice together in meaningful ways. An excellent resource for scholars and teachers teaching philosophy here the potential strengths and weaknesses of the growing ecofeminist movement are critically assessed by scholars in a variety of academic disciplines and vocations including anthropology, biology, chemical engineering, education, political science, recreation and leisure studies, sociology and political organizing.

Two of the most important political movements of the late twentieth century are those of environmentalism and feminism. In this book Val Plumwood argues that feminist theory has an important opportunity to make a major contribution to the debates in political ecology and environmental philosophy. Feminism and the mastery of nature explains the relation between ecofeminism or ecological feminism and other feminist theories including radical green theories such as deep ecology. Val Plumwood provides a philosophically informed account of the relation of women and nature and shows how relating male domination to the domination of nature is important and yet remains a dilemma for women.

Drawing on the insights of ecology, feminism and socialism, ecofeminism's basic premise is that the ideology that authorizes oppression based on race, class, gender, sexuality, physical abilities and species is the same ideology that sanctions the oppression of nature. In this collection of essays, feminist scholars and activists discuss the relationships among human, nature, the natural environment and nonhuman animals. They reject the nature/culture dualism of patriarchal thought and locate animals and humans within nature. The goal of these twelve articles is to contribute to the evolving dialogue among feminists, ecofeminists, animal liberationists, deep ecologists and social ecologists in an effort to create a sustainable lifestyle for all inhabitants of the earth. Among the issues addressed are the conflicts between green politics and ecofeminism, various applications of ecofeminist theory, the relationship of animal liberation to ecofeminism, harmful implications of the romanticized woman/nature association in western culture, and cultural limitations of ecofeminism. In the series Ethics and Action, edited by Tom Regan.

Destined to transform its field, this volume features some of the most exciting feminist scholars and activists working within feminist political ecology, including Giovanna Di Chiro, Dianne Rocheleau, Catherine Walsh and Christa Wichterich, offering a collective critique of the green economy. It features the latest analyses of the post Rio 20 debates alongside a nuanced reading of the impact of the current ecological and economic crises on women as well as their communities and ecologies. This new, politically timely and engaging text puts feminist political ecology back on the map.

The volume documents and makes an original contribution to an astonishing period in twentieth century philosophy. The progress of Arne Naess's ecophilosophy from its inception to the present. It includes Naess's most crucial polemics with leading thinkers drawn from sources as diverse as scholarly articles, correspondence, TV interviews and unpublished exchanges. The book testifies to the skeptical and self-correcting aspects of Naess's vision, which has deepened and broadened to include third world and feminist perspectives. Philosophical dialogues is an essential addition to the literature on environmental philosophy.
