globalization and east asia opportunities and challenges examines different aspects of the economic performance of the region over the past three decades with a focus on what it takes to replicate the experience elsewhere nineteen of the finest presentations from the 12th international conference of the international trade and finance association in bangkok thailand have been carefully selected and revised by their expert authors providing powerful practical economic development approaches that can be used to develop other economies this comprehensive volume presents an insightful four part view of the intricate economic workings of east asia the first part introduces the distinctive qualities of the policies that sparked economic growth and development part two provides comparative studies of different countries and industries in the region and an in depth study of the east asian area over the past fifty years part three presents sector specific studies within several countries focusing on international finance the fourth part spotlights important industry specific elements and explores the future of globalization in relation to its effects on east asia each chapter is extensively referenced and several use tables and charts to clearly reinforce crucial points globalization and east asia includes topics such as the characteristics of east asian economic growth and how other areas will benefit the rapid economic growth of the region since the end of world war ii an evaluation of efficiency and leveraging of assets comparing the united states and the four dragon fd industries structural weaknesses within asian countries trade flows between the united states and thailand a bilateral study the progress of apec s environmental cooperation financial resource flows during the 1990s malaysian financial markets and the asian financial crisis china s economic transition and exchange rate policies the use of dual production theory as a model in the world economy thailand s telecommunications sector and how it provides illustration for other sector specific industries in developing countries development of bilateral trade negotiations between the united states and vietnam the status of united states apparel imports globalization and east asia is important insightful reading for researchers scholars and professionals specializing in regional economics and economic development presents a multidimensional perspective of globalisation in southeast asia looks at political economic security social and cultural dimensions of globalisation and local responses showing evidence of complex interfacing between the global and the local championing the need for a multidisciplinary approach to globalisation studies for anyone seeking a diverse range of perspectives on globalisation in the asia pacific region this collection of highly readable essays is a good place to start focusing on individual countries the chapters examine the specific modalities of global integration and the responses of different sections of society in each country the authors address questions of major importance for democratic societies such as the connection between globalisation and the rise of religious extremism whether globalisation is in reality a new form of imperial preference who the winners and losers are these are complemented by three short case studies dealing with indonesia s unrealised potential foreign investment in china and patterns in the movement of people between hong kong and the mainland the essays provide a rich source of thought provoking analysis of the complex cultural and political responses arising from both opportunities provided by globalisation and its more negative impacts melanie beresford macquarie university australia globalization in the asian region draws confident ragged lines across disciplines themes and the conventional boundaries of scholarship the range of material in the anthology is astounding the diversity and admixture of political positions and approaches is confronting contemporary asia is thus mapped without overgeneralizing a homogenous whole paul james rmit university australia this collection of thoughtful essays provides a reliable picture of the dynamic and often ironic operation of globalization in asia today and challenges individuals to believe that as communities we have a choice in how we respond and contribute to globalization the editors highlight the multifaceted nature of globalization and bring to the fore its supraterritoriality a dozen detailed studies make good on these claims from analyses of american militancy since 9 11 terrorism and poverty to case studies on malaysia indonesia india australia new zealand japan and china these essays make clear the interactive nature of globalization as various economic cultural and political forces pour into asian societies while the impact of their responses from exports to currency fluctuations to migration flows to transnational religious movements in turn reshape the selfsame globalization process timothy cheek university of british columbia canada bringing together contributors from both the university sector and business centered research institutions this comprehensive volume offers diverse perspectives on the impacts and consequences of globalization in different parts of the asian region each chapter offers a substantial account of globalization within a particular nation state or area in the region different understandings underpin the chapters some contributors perceive globalization as progress in the form of economically driven processes that have made nations mutually dependent in unprecedented and complex ways others emphasize the uneven outcomes of globalization as well as the stakes for economic growth and social order in the global climate of deepening political and religious divisions since september 2001 general and specialist readers alike will gain an appreciation of the myriad emphases placed on globalization within different nations and from various vantage points the book showcases diverse styles of discourse and serves to greatly broaden the scope of what can be discussed under the rubric of globalization within a single volume written by a recognized expert in the area of business economics this book analyzes the effect of the it revolution globalization and the new economy on the development of east asia this timely volume examines various economic managerial social and political aspects of globalization and its impact on local economies state of the art analytical models and original empirical research is used to understand four key and interrelated facets of globalization to understand the prospects and the problems of international business and mncs in the global economy to analyze globalization as a process of change to understand the new roles of nation states in light of the above to articulate the uneasy idea that globalization has resulted in serious imbalances in the global economy the collection hosts a list of internationally eminent scholars who explain the implications of globalization for progress crises and conflicts in south and southeast asia explores three decades of adjustment on the part of governments civil society and the private sector to the complex forces of international competition this book focuses on the essential ingredients of the most successful globalization strategies strategies that can optimally respond to the economic social and technological challenges this book looks at globalisation in historical perspective and examines the experience of east asian economies during the financial crisis provides an account of globalisation through the activities of japanese multinational enterprises deals with the social consequences of exposure to the financial market risks of globalisation in east asia details the experience of east asian economies in managing the financial crisis draws lessons from east asian experience with financial market liberalisation asks what approaches to international financial cooperation trade policy and corporate governance can assist east asian interests in the world economy the term economic globalization has been discussed extensively in the popular press by business executives and by policy makers all over the world while academic economists have made some excellent contributions to specific technical aspects of economic globalization there appears to be a need for economists to discuss the broader aspects of the issue in a more accessible manner failing this the general debate will be informed only by the writings of non economists that is the motivation for this book which is a collection of essays on various aspects of economic globalization in general but with specific reference to asia an interdisciplinary text this volume shows how simplified views of globalization that define it as either good or bad are unhelpful when analysing the impact globalizing forces are having on asian societies east asia is widely regarded as the main winner in contemporary globalization unscathed by the economic crisis of 2008 with its leading new industrializing nations and emerging economies while 20th century globalization was mainly led by the west the 21st century is ushering in different dynamics the re emergence of asia involves alternative visions of the world and different perspectives on globalization this volume seeks to address these dimensions turning to local reflexivities notably in south korea and china to explore the key debates in sociology and political economy within east asia rather than from an outside view this clear and timely book presents the first sustained and structured analysis of globalization in the east asian context exploring the strategies used by east asian countries to cope with the forces of globalization eschewing both neoliberal hyperglobalization chants and neorealist globaloney castigation the authors integrate a broad conceptual framework with region and country specific case studies specifically the book poses and addresses three major questions about east asia s globalization first it identifies the range of contending conceptualizations of globalization that have underpinned the region s changing and contradictory views in the 1990s second the book critically probes the discrepancy between promise and performance the myths and realities of east asian globalization and the complex interaction of challenges and responses third the authors evaluates the impacts and consequences of globalization for east asia s political economic social cultural ecological and security development these questions clarify the often murky nature challenges responses and consequences of globalization especially in light of the asian financial crisis and moves toward recovery what is the relationship between globalization and economic security globalisation and economic security in east asia is an incisive new engagement with this important question that uses detailed conceptual exploration and fresh empirical analysis viewing traditional neorealist conceptions of economic security as overly narrow this new study suggests that any conception of economic security in the contemporary era needs to also pay close attention to the nature of global capitalism and the insecurities it generates for societies and individuals this uniquely open ended approach to conceptualizing economic security is supported by the east asian experience the country case studies included here reveal that while economic security has largely been posed as one of ensuring sustainable economic growth and equitable social development particularly following the 1997 to 1998 asian financial crisis other more realist conceptions of economic security have not become irrelevant this is also an exploration of whether and how national regional and multilateral institutions as well as non state regional mechanisms help policy makers meet the task of governing in the interests of economic security this book will be of great interest to all students and scholars of international relations international political economy of east asia globalization and security studies the discourse of globalization has until now been embedded in the context of the west europe and north america even though the asia pacific region is at the forefront of globalization processes it has received far less attention this volume provides a detailed study which looks at globalization in the asia pacific region a collection of interdisciplinary scholars explore various dimensions of globalization and their relationship to development processes in the region the text includes accounts of how globalization is being experienced understood managed and resisted at various scales in relation to development processes in the asia pacific region this perspective should provide valuable analysis for political scientists as well as those involved in human geography sociology international political economy development studies asian studies and economics

this clear and timely book presents the first sustained and structured analysis of globalization in the east asian context exploring the strategies used by east asian countries to cope with the forces of globalization eschewing both neoliberal hyperglobalization chants and neorealist globaloney castigation the authors integrate a broad conceptual framework with region and country specific case studies specifically the book poses and addresses three major questions about east asia s globalization first it identifies the range of contending conceptualizations of globalization that have underpinned the region s changing and contradictory views in the 1990s second the book critically probes the discrepancy between promise and performance the myths and realities of east asian globalization and the complex interaction of challenges and responses third the authors evaluates the impacts and consequences of globalization for east asia s political economic social cultural ecological and security development these questions clarify the often murky nature challenges responses and consequences of globalization especially in light of the asian financial crisis and moves toward recovery

the writings by japanese and german economists presented here originated against the backdrop of ongoing globalization processes and notable fluctuations in regional economic dynamics observable at the same time primarily in the east and south east asian area they provided the occasion for these writers to come to terms with globalization processes and in particular with the stabilizing and destabilizing elements at work in them this is the basis for their investigation of the options provided by economics and economic policy for stabilizing an ever more tightly interwoven world economy the regional focal points of the contributions are the east asian realm and the European Union and the points of view are in every case both from the Japanese and the German side questions of international competition and mechanisms of the spread of the crisis in the wake of globalization processes lie at the centre of the analyses by Hisashi Watanabe and Willy Kraus. Hisashi Watanabe focusses on the relationship an especially important one from the Japanese perspective between Japan and South Korea and takes up the problem of South Korea's demand that Japan should energetically promote its own transition to a service sector oriented society and withdraw from certain areas of manufacturing this it is argued will grant Japan's Asian neighbours better chances for development and make a positive contribution to the economic stabilization of the region

This volume discusses the current trend of globalization and the main characteristics of world order focusing specifically on the destiny of the nation state the threat against human rights and conflicts between unilateral hegemony of the USA and Europe it examines the contemporary European experience and compares it with Asian reality with a view to implications for the future development of Asia it also discusses regional integration as a framework for bringing stable peace exploring detailed principles and specific forms of a regional community in Asia contributors from Europe and Asia critically review previous literature on this topic and suggest new theoretical and empirical grounds of regional community in Asia the book takes the viewpoint of comparative civilization and experiences of European integration to offer meaningful lessons for the future of nation states and the possibility of building regional communities in Asia

We are witnessing a transformation in the world economy as a result of the IT e business revolution modern logistics based on cheap communication and transportation are shifting the locus of production and the international division of labour between the West and the lower wage countries of East Asia and similar changes are occurring within East Asia itself looming over the entire picture is the colossus that is China and this transformation is making East Asia the manufacturing centre of the world economy written by a recognized expert in the area of business economics this book analyzes these developments and evaluates their future impact on the development of East Asia and its role in the world economy the book examines the effect of the it revolution globalization and the new economy on the development of east asia the first book length treatment of it e business in the region it questions whether the e business revolution will renew and sustain the rapid economic development of east asia the world in the last two decades of the twentieth century fundamentally and radically changed at a speed and on a scale never before witnessed the challenge posed at the beginning of the third millennium is enormous for governments and people the world over globalization along with globalism continues its unrelenting and accelerating march as it draws more countries cities and people closer into interdependent relationships globalization and networked societies attempts to tease out some of the salient elements of this process especially as it has affected urban centers in pacific asia over the past twenty years globalization and rapid economic growth have transformed the region and its cities on varied spatial scales bringing new opportunities and challenges for governments the private sector and individuals all countries in pacific asia are covered in this work with special attention given to hong kong and to china a late bloomer in the asia scene but nevertheless one that has experienced phenomenal growth and accelerated globalization in recent decades the empirical analyses reveal the outcome dilemmas and meanings of globalization in the urban regional scene
