here is a brief well written and lively history of southeast asia from ancient times to the present paying particular attention to the region s role in world history lockard shows how for several millennia southeast asians living at the crossroads of asia enjoyed ever expanding connections to both china and india and later developed maritime trading networks to the middle east and europe lockard describes colonization by europeans and americans between 1500 and 1914 and shows how southeast asians regained their independence after world war ii

so far histories of historiography have concentrated almost exclusively on the west this is the first book to offer a history of modern historiography from a global perspective tracing the transformation of historical writings over the past two and half centuries the book portrays the transformation of historical writings under the effect of professionalization which served as a model not only for western but also for much of non western historical studies at the same time it critically examines the reactions in post modern and post colonial thought to established conceptions of scientific historiography a main theme of the book is how historians in the non western world not only adopted or adapted western ideas but also explored different approaches rooted in their own cultures history teaches us that agricultural growth and development is necessary for achieving overall better living conditions in all societies although this process may seem homogenous when looked at from the outside it is full of diversity within this book captures this diversity by presenting eleven independent case studies ranging over time and space by comparing outcomes attempts are made to draw general conclusion and lessons about the agricultural transformation process conventional accounts of world history tend to focus on the rise of western civilisation and concentrate on the story of ancient greece the roman empire and the expansion of europe the histories of the great civilisations of china india and japan and therefore the experience of the majority of the world s people have been relegated to a minor place world history adopts a radically different approach starting from the assumption that the human story has to be seen in the round it examines the evolution of humans their lives as hunters and gatherers and their eventual adoption of agriculture before looking at the emergence of civilisation across the globe in mesopotamia egypt china the indus valley mesoamerica and peru it goes on to tell the story of the earliest empires emphasising not just their differences but also their similarities it explains how contacts were established between them and how technologies ideas and the world s great religions travelled from one to another it describes the great empires of islam of china and of the mongols only towards the end of the story does europe come slowly to dominate the world against the background of technical innovations and social and economic change
