healthcare team the nurse who specializes in geriatric care and management is called a gerontological nurse. Such a nurse has undergone specialized training in the field of geriatric care and management as a nurse practitioner, a specialist, or a generalist. A certification examination is then required for the nurse to practice and earn the title of gerontological nurse. The gerontological nurse certification requires passing a test administered by the American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC). Depending on the type of examination, there is a prerequisite, otherwise known as eligibility criteria, for a gerontological nurse practitioner and CNS clinical nurse specialist: an active RN license, postgraduate masters or doctoral degree with advanced courses in pathophysiology, health assessment, differential diagnosis, disease management, health promotion, and pharmacology. For a gerontological nurse generalist, it is required to have 2,000 practice hours in geriatric care and an active RN license. The examination contains 175 questions of which 150 are scored and 25 are considered pre-test. The policies and rules may change from time to time; the requirement stated in this book are true at the time of the author's research. This book contains practice questions with rationale covering the different components of gerontological nursing. It is not intended to reflect the exact questions of the board exam.
