a discourse on economic development is based on two recently published books by kartik roy governance institutions and economic development emerging china india east asia presented an in depth analysis of the reasons for successes and failures of these nations developmental efforts economic environmental and political governance in china japan india brazil korea indonesia thailand malaysia singapore and vietnam brought acknowledged the urgency of the need for countries political leaders to follow the teachings of kautilya confucius ibn khaldun karl marx and mahatma gandhi and to make serious efforts to implement those lessons in practice it is worth noting here mancur olson's famous remarks that economic decisions are unlikely to be taken in the collective interest of individuals due to bargaining costs and the problem of free riders unless they are members of small groups such a coalition of self interest individuals is likely to try to redistribute income towards itself instead of working to raise efficiency and national income for the full benefit of the entire population and country hence the authors feel that it is more likely that in all democracies rather than in autocracies members of the ministry will form olson's coalition of self interest fulfilling persons who are semi literate have rarely been engaged in any income earning activity and who are adept at taking recourse to dishonest means to fill up their pockets as well as to attain glory and who have no knowledge of the teachings of kautilya confucius khaldun marx gandhi and other great men of the past likewise they will have no interest in their implementation on practice in this book the authors have made an effort to create a synergy between the theory and practice in economic development economic development of emerging east asia presents economic studies of taiwan and south korea compares them chiefly with japan and the united states and finds that these east asian countries are still in the process of emerging in the world economy a timely quantitative and econometric analysis of the regional economies of emerging east asia the volume examines development indicators effects of the 1997 asian financial crisis productivity growth catching up and convergence of long run real gdp per capita growth the time required for a country to catch up colonialism and economic development in taiwan and india arranged in increasing complexity of economic analyses the chapters in this book provide a comprehensive understanding of emerging east asian economies in addition to serving as a handy reference for regional economists policy analysts and researchers economic development of emerging east asia can also be used as a textbook on economics and business when the state and business interact effectively they can promote a more efficient allocation of scarce resources appropriate industrial policy and a more effective and prioritised removal of key obstacles to growth than when the two sides fail to co operate or engage in harmful collusion this book based on original empirical research undertaken in africa and india addresses what constitutes the effectiveness of state business relations what explains their formation and evolution over time and whether effective state business relations matter for economic performance analysing the effects of state business relations on economic performance at both the macro and micro levels the book concludes that where effective state business relations are established either through formal or informal institutional patterns and relationships the growth effects are generally positive establishing sustaining and renewing effective state business relations are political processes the better organized the business community and the government are for purposes of such relations the more effective state business relations will be in negotiating growth enhancing policies the book is of interest to researchers in the fields of development studies management economics and political science the notion that south asian economies have tended to be less successful than those of east asia is critically examined and the reasons why discussed countries covered include pakistan india bangladesh and sri lanka key issues examined agriculture and rural development labour market and human resource development trade and industry policies foreign investment and technological capabilities foreign aid and economic development financial development and economic performance poverty inequality and economic development regional economic co operation green development this collection brings together a collection of theoretical and empirical findings on aspects of financial development and economic growth in developing countries the book is divided into two parts the first identifies and analyses the major theoretical issues using examples from developing countries to illustrate how these work in practice the second part looks at the implications for financial policy in developing countries
