the debate about the performance of us students on international assessments of educational achievement routinely fails to account for one consistently stark result us achievement is bifurcated between a group of high performing asian and white students and an exceptionally low performing group of black and hispanic students by summarizing results across 20 major international tests conducted since 1995 this research paper shows that when us racial and ethnic groups are separately compared with other countries asian and white students regularly perform at or near the top of international rankings while black and hispanic students typically rank at or near the bottom furthermore the united states has a substantially larger minority population than all other developed countries and minority status is not synonymous with internationally comparable factors such as socioeconomic level or immigrant status the fact that overall us scores are disproportionately influenced by race and ethnicity suggests that researchers and reformers must reconsider how they use and interpret the results of international achievement tests the research paper recommends providing and analyzing cross national data separately by ethnic groups to inform approaches to improving education for all students this book examines the impact of and response to the rapidly growing english language learner ell populations in the southeastern united states on k 16 schooling using examples of policy and practice from seven states alabama arkansas florida georgia north carolina and tennessee the book explores how the contemporary context of accountability regimes and neoliberal tenets affect educational responses to the increased linguistic and cultural diversity in schools and how these realities may be different from when traditional states such as california or florida were developing their responses to immigration the collection of chapters addresses key questions of teacher preparation effective infrastructures and frameworks for serving ell dual language bilingual education and advocacy efforts at the state district and local level in the southeast the authors describe promising practices in each state but also note the need for more systemic statewide approaches that resist the enduring monolingual discourse that has historically characterized much of ell schooling they call for transformative policies and practices that take current research into account and that stress the centrality of pluralistic principles to design effective schools for ell this brief explores school funding reform in the states of kentucky and tennessee in 1990 kentucky passed the kentucky education reform act designed to overhaul that state's education system two years later tennessee passed the education improvement act which included the basic education plan designed to foster equity in funding among the state's schools initiated as a result of lawsuits against the state's educational systems both programs dealt with school funding specifically funding equalization among districts this brief examines the environments that precipitated funding reform in each state as well as the outcomes of the reforms on student achievement the similarities and differences between the approaches in each state are analyzed and compared to related reform programs in other states an in depth study of regional educational reform in the united states this brief is of use to public policy scholars as well as education policy consultants and other school system or state education leaders for more than two generations the traditional urban school system the district has utterly failed to do its job prepare its students for a lifetime of success millions and millions of boys and girls have suffered the grievous consequences the district is irreparably broken for the sake of today's and tomorrow's inner city kids it must be replaced the urban school system of the future argues that vastly better results can be realized through the creation of a new type of organization that properly manages a city's portfolio of schools using the revolutionary principles of chartering it will ensure that new schools are regularly created that great schools are expanded and replicated that persistently failing schools are closed and that families have access to an array of high quality options this new entity will focus exclusively on school performance meaning among other things our cities can thoughtfully integrate their traditional public charter public and private schools into a single high functioning k 12 system for decades the district has produced the most heartbreaking results for already at risk kids the urban school system of the future explains how we can finally turn the tide and create dynamic responsive high performing self improving urban school systems that fulfill the promise of public education
