the incorporation of new provinces in the roman empire both in the east and the west coincides with marked changes in urban infrastructure and layout and in rural settlement patterns as is attested by numerous excavations and surveys while scholars agree on the quantitative and qualitative transformation of cities and their territories such as an increase in the number of monumental buildings and rural sites a significantly higher degree of urbanization a more sophisticated lifestyle etc little research has been devoted to the ways in which these structures and sites and their internal components were organized spatially the eleven papers presented in this volume result from workshops organized by the international interdisciplinary roct network roman crafts and trade from a heterogeneous chronological and geographical background the peer reviewed collection of papers focuses on one central issue the use of space in the roman world space on all sorts of levels shapes human life now as in the past the edited volume contrasts two dimensions of space the macro scale at regional level and the micro scale at local level moreover the selected papers are written against a variety of methodological backgrounds and practices including excavation and surveying strategies contextual analysis and material culture studies the variety of content approaches and interpretation results from the conscious deliberation that this is the only possible way to think about space in the roman world the contributions cover the roman world with its provinces throughout the long period in history which can be considered roman in each of the study areas frank vermeulen is professor of roman archaeology and of archaeological method at ghent university his research interests cover settlement history and landscape development in the western mediterranean during antiquity raymond brulet est professeur d archeologie nationale a l universite catholique de louvain louvain la neuve il est specialise dans la periode de l antiquite tardive et dans le domaine de l archeometrie hannelore vanhaverbeke is a postdoctoral fellow of the research foundation flanders fwo belgium she is the field director of the annual rural surveys near sagalassos and teaches at the catholic university of leuven belgium jeroen poblome is a research professor at the katholieke universiteit leuven he studies artisanal production organization and exchange patterns and mechanisms in the ancient eastern mediterranean with fieldwork in boeotia pisidia and cilicia this volume is the product of a theoretical archaeology group tag conference session held at lampeter wales in december 2003 entitled mentalit s and identities in motion included here are all the papers held there and more besides the session centred on the role of past ways of thinking feeling and acting in social transformation and exploring past worldviews as instead of being relegated to the fictional or anecdotal an integral part of every aspect of human life not just explicit contexts of power struggles and domination but also approachable from the material evidence the contributions are widely spread across space and time ranging from northern ireland to sicily from france to bulgaria and covering almost every period from the mesolithic to the thirty years war on top of this they are also very different in methodology in the ways they have interpreted the session title and approached their evidence before rushing headlong into this kaleidoscopic mix then it is worth briefly explaining the rationale behind the session title and the selection and arrangement of papers
