this book is a broad survey of theories of human communication representing a multi theoretical and multidisciplinary approach my premise is that we can best understand communication processes by looking at many theories focusing on various aspects of interaction most communication research and most applications of that research acknowledge the process nature of communication however the material following that acknowledgment conforms to traditional linear and static approaches treating communication as little more than printed text this print paradigm persists despite repeated calls to explore the more dynamic nature of communication the author argues that communication is a process analogous to the complexity in other living systems complexity theory models biological processes similar to how chaos theory treats chemical and physical processes the book begins with a review of philosophical and social psychological thought as a basis for explaining the mathematical and natural science models this volume reviews a remarkable range of material stretching over three centuries the author explains complicated concepts in a simple and often whimsical way and uses practical as well as research examples to bring technical ideas to a wide audience the author develops paradigmatic principles and then describes the process of information and a model of communication as a socially emergent process the early chapters are a foundation for disputing current thinking across a range of concepts such as communication and self stories and storytelling communication and trust and conflict the author concludes by sketching theoretical methodological and practical and ethical challenges the volume is as dynamic and intricate as the complexity of human communication this theory based introduction to basic concepts in human communication provides coverage of new and innovative theories as well as the more traditional coverage of an introduction to communication course giving students an understanding of the discipline and helping them develop strategies for becoming better communicators the controversy of flux and stasis as the groundwork of reality of greek ancient philosophy reached its crux in the all encompassing doctrine of the logos by heraclitus of ephesus it centers upon human soul in its role with the cosmos philosophy of the occident corroborating greek insights with the progress of culture in numerous interpretations kant kierkegaard husserl merleau ponty ricoeur presented in this collection has neglected the cosmic sphere while contemporary development of science revealed its grounding principles papers by grandpierre kule and trutty coohill the ancient logos fully emerges thus logos hitherto hidden in our commerce with earth is revealed in its intertwinings with the cosmos through the trajectories of the phenomenology onto poiesis of life tymieniecka the crucial link between the soul and the cosmos in a new geo cosmic horizon is thus being retrieved this book summarizes the important and promising emerging theories of human communication that go beyond received traditions it includes essays on emerging theories of communication and culture relational communicative competence conflict communication communication and peace agenda setting and the role of mass media in democratic political processes new rhetoric and new social movements and communication and management of public sector competitiveness contributors to this volume include deborah blood dudley d cahn donal carbaugh ron b cullen donald p cushman william a donohue timothy gibson gerard a hauser trudy milburn hiroshi ota jiro takai susan whalen john m wiemann mary o weimann and jian h zhu
