if social science's cultural turn has taught us anything it is that knowledge is constrained by the time and place in which it is produced in response scholars have begun to reassess social theory from the standpoints of groups and places outside of the european context upon which most grand theory is based here a distinguished group of scholars reevaluates widely accepted theories of state property race and economics against latin american experiences with a two fold purpose they seek to deepen our understanding of latin america and the problems it faces and by testing social science paradigms against a broader variety of cases they pursue a better and truly generalizable map of the social world bringing universal theory into dialogue with specific history the contributors consider what forms latin american variations of classical themes might take and which theories are most useful in describing latin america for example the argentinian experience reveals the limitations of neoclassical descriptions of economic development but charles tilly's emphasis on the importance of war and collective action to statemaking holds up well when thoughtfully adapted to latin american situations marxist structural analysis is problematic in a region where political divisions do not fully express class cleavages but aspects of karl polanyi's socioeconomic theory cross borders with relative ease this fresh theoretical discussion expands the scope of latin american studies and social theory bringing the two into an unprecedented conversation that will benefit both contributors are in addition to the editors jeremy adelman jorge i domínguez paul gootenberg alan knight robert m levine claudio lomnitz john markoff verónica montecinos steven c topik and j samuel valenzuela

this book addresses one of the most serious societal questions of our time how to create new spaces and frameworks for minority recognition given the state centric sovereignty discourse and the persisting equality jargon that dominate today's world by so doing it approaches minority rights by means of a critical engagement with its underlying premises notably it makes attempts to both construct and reconfigure neglected legal categories in particular collective rights and to deconstruct domestic constitutional orders more precisely it does so through diametrically opposed levels of analysis that is top down and bottom up logics by exploring sociolegal strategies forms and formats of governance on the one hand and grassroots demands on the other drawing on empirical findings in Europe and Latin America the book gives us a sense of how recognition needs to be contextualised against the background of right wing trends in Europe and the rebuilding of the state in the Andes this is a fascinating study of one of the key questions engaging human rights minority studies and discrimination law
