excerpt from moral theory an introduction to ethics this book is intended to serve as an introduction to ethics as opposed to a handbook or manual the difference between the two as i conceive it lies in the fact that the one is intended to start the student on the subject and then leave him to pursue his own investigations while the other aims at giving him some sort of assistance throughout their course the manual therefore would have to give some account of all the chief ethical theories and all the chief ethical problems whereas this is just what the introduction would avoid in attempting to write an introduction in this sense i have followed a method which is very common in teaching and lecturing but has not been much used in published work that is i have taken after a brief introduction to the subject two specimen authors or rather two specimen works representing different points of view and have examined and criticized them in some detail these works should really be read by the student in conjunction with or before my own book but to avoid overburdening him or her with too much reading at the outset of the subject i have confined myself with slight exceptions to the consideration of these two works and have said as little as possible about the general philosophical views of the authors or even about their other ethical writings as i hope that this book may be of use to students who can read no language but english i have quoted throughout from standard translations of the works in question in the case of aristotle s ethics i have used peters translation and for kant s fundamental principles i have used the translation by dr t k abbott about
