some twenty years ago the search began for b cell lymphoma bcl 10 binding partners that connect via homophilic interaction with its n terminal caspase recruitment domain card to induce nuclear factor kappa b nf κ b activation this effort led first to the identification of the protein card9 soon afterwards similar searches identified card10 aka carma3 card11 aka carma1 and card14 aka carma2 as further bcl10 interactors these discoveries paved the way for landmark progress in our understanding of nf κ b activation pathways downstream of several cell surface receptors on multiple cell types focused particularly on antigen receptors on lymphocytes an additional binding partner called mucosa associated lymphoid tissue lymphoma translocation protein 1 malt1 was also implicated in the card bcl10 pathway since then the resulting cbm complex has been recognized as a key node in signaling cascades leading to nf κ b activation particularly in immune cells mouse models of genetic deficiencies for each cbm component provided the first evidence for their critical role in cell signaling more recently studies of human lymphoid malignancies and novel genetic disorders have revealed important new insights both gain and loss of function mutations were identified establishing these carma card proteins as key regulators of proliferation and differentiation of immune and non immune cells and linking them to human disease according to the genetic defect involved dysregulation of carma card pathways can lead to a broad spectrum of immune disorders including severe immune deficiencies lymphoproliferative disorders psoriasis and atopy the aim of this research topic is to summarize and update our current understanding of carma card protein biology from initial discoveries to the most recent insights it focuses on card9 and the carma proteins card10 card11 and card14 from genetic signaling and disease perspectives bcl10 and malt1 are also reviewed in this context as critical nodes for cbm signal relay and regulation this research topic also aims to delineate the next key questions in the field to guide future research efforts this edited volume covers the various research and application of narratives for health and well being focusing on individual family and community uses of narrative this book provides a self contained account of continuous parameter time series starting with second order models integration with respect to orthogonal increment processes spectral theory and linear prediction are treated in detail lévy driven models are incorporated extending coverage to allow for infinite variance a variety of marginal distributions and sample paths having jumps the necessary theory of lévy processes and integration of deterministic functions with respect to these processes is developed at length special emphasis is given to the analysis of continuous time arma processes
