in global origins of the modern self from montaigne to suzuki avram alpert contends that scholars have yet to fully grasp the constitutive force of global connections in the making of modern selfhood alpert argues that canonical moments of self making from around the world share a surprising origin in the colonial anthropology of europeans in the americas while most intellectual histories of modernity begin with the cartesian inward turn alpert shows how this turn itself was an evasion of the impact of the colonial encounter he charts a counter history of the modern self tracing lines of influence that stretch from michel de montaigne s encounter with the tupi through the writings of jean jacques rousseau into german idealism american transcendentalism postcolonial critique and modern zen alpert considers an unusually wide range of thinkers including kant hegel fanon emerson du bois senghor and suzuki this book not only breaks with disciplinary conventions about period and geography but also argues that these conventions obscure our ability to understand the modern condition imperial leather chronicles the dangerous liaisons between gender race and class that shaped british imperialism and its bloody dismantling spanning the century between victorian britain and the current struggle for power in south africa the book takes up the complex relationships between race and sexuality fetishism and money gender and violence domesticity and the imperial market and the gendering of nationalism within the zones of imperial and anti imperial power frantz fanon s explosive black skin white masks is a merciless exposé of the psychological damage done by colonial rule across the world using fanon s incisive analytical abilities to expose the consequences of colonialism on the psyches of colonized peoples it is both a crucial text in post colonial theory and a lesson in the power of analytical skills to reveal the realities that hide beneath the surface of things fanon was himself part of a colonized nation martinique and grew up with the values and beliefs of french culture imposed upon him while remaining relegated to an inferior status in society qualifying as a psychiatrist in france before working in algeria a french colony subject to brutal repression his own experiences granted him a sharp insight into the psychological problems associated with colonial rule like any good analytical thinker fanon s particular skill was in breaking things down and joining dots his analysis of colonial rule exposed its implicit assumptions and how they were replicated in colonised populations allowing fanon to unpick the hidden reasons behind his own conflicted psychological make up and those of his patients unflinchingly clear sighted in doing so black skin white masks remains a shocking read today
