we are all too aware of the horror of the holocaust fifty five years on the most controversial unresolved issue of the second world war is the savage treatment of their prisoners by the japanese for as many as 18 hours a day they toiled in back breaking conditions disease malaria dengue fever beriberi and dysentery was rife they were treated worse than animals starved of food sleep and shelter while working in death camps their captors took their red cross parcels and laughed the cruelty was abominable although some individual experiences have been given testimony on film bridge over the river kwai and in books i e eric lomax s the railway man brian macarthur s bushido is the first comprehensive history of the fepows far east prisoners of war here is the full story of the fepows life on the edge of existence from 1941 when hong kong fell and 1942 when singapore surrendered until 1945

during world war ii the japanese were stereotyped in the european imagination as fanatical cruel almost inhuman an image reflected in most books and films about prisoner of war in the far east while the japanese certainly treated those they captured badly behaving far worse to chinese and native captives than to europeans the conventional view of the japanese is unhistorical and simplistic it fails to recognize that the japanese were acting at a time of supreme national crisis trial at a particular period of their history and that their attitudes were influenced by a combination of their perception of their own racial identity mixed with a powerful historical tradition this collection of essays by both western and japanese scholars aims to see the question from a historical viewpoint and from both a western and japanese perspective looking at it in the light of both longer term influences notably the japanese attempt to establish themselves as an honorary white race the essays also examine particular instances conditions in the almost self run camp at changi contrasted remarkably with those on the burma railway where disease and a failure to provide supplies caused terrible suffering the book also addresses the other side of the question looking at the treatment of japanese prisoners in allied captivity

this study is primarily a treatment of the use of prisoner of war labor by the united states army it also provides a comprehensive treatment of the employment of prisoners of war by private employers in the united states the primary objective of this monograph is to provides in one volume a comprehensive record of the use of prisoner of war labor for the guidance of general staff officers and students in the army school system it is hoped that this study will assist the industrial and military mobilization planners of the future in planning for the use of prisoner of war labor the material will also aid those interested in military affairs to understand some of the basic problems connected with the employment of prisoners of war foreword the author of guarding hitler tells the truly heart rending stories of caucasian and eurasian children held captive inside japanese internment camps the japanese treatment of allied children was as harsh and murderous as that of their parents and military pows but this whole episode has been overlooked children were plucked from comfortable colonial lives and forced to mature hastily in terrible circumstances where survival became a daily game and where their lives were constantly threatened by disease starvation and physical abuse many of these children were separated from their parents or they saw their families destroyed by the japanese most witnessed almost daily episodes of bestial violence that no child should ever see and the entire cumulative experience has had a deep and lasting effect into their adult lives they are among the last victims of japanese aggression and even over sixty years later many carry the mental and physical scars of that atrocious episode the fate of japan s military prisoners is now well known but the equally poor treatment handed out to the civilian internees and their children is a less familiar topic many books on this subject focus on a particular part of the japanese empire felton has taken a different approach and covers most of the japanese empire from singapore and the rest of mainland china through hong kong malaya burma and on into the dutch east indies and the philippines historyofwar.org includes reports relative to jails and houses of correction annual reports of the state prison reformatory prisons for women the reformatories at concord the annual report of the agent for aiding discharged prisoners etc series i contains the formal reports both union and confederate of the first seizures of united states property in the southern states and of all military operations in the field with the correspondence orders and returns relating specially thereto and as proposed is to be accompanied by an atlas in this series the reports will be arranged according to the campaigns and several theaters of operations in the chronological order of the events and the union reports of any event will as a rule be immediately followed by the confederate accounts the correspondence etc not embraced in the reports proper will follow first union and next confederate in chronological order volume xiv
