by the middle of 2007 afghans had become increasingly disillusioned with a state building process that had failed to deliver the peace dividend that they were promised for many afghans the most noticeable change in their lives since the fall of the taliban has been an acute deterioration in security conditions whether it is predatory warlords the taliban led insurgency the burgeoning narcotics trade or general criminality the threats to the security and stability of afghanistan are manifold the response to those threats both in terms of the international military intervention and the donor supported process to rebuild the security architecture of the afghan state known as security sector reform ssr has been largely insufficient to address the task at hand nato has struggled to find the troops and equipment it requires to complete its afghan mission and the ssr process from its outset has been severely under resourced and poorly directed compounding these problems rampant corruption and factionalism in the afghan government particularly in the security institutions have served as major impediments to reform and a driver of insecurity this paper charts the evolution of the security environment in afghanistan since the fall of the taliban assessing both the causes of insecurity and the responses to them through this analysis it offers some suggestions on how to tackle afghanistan s growing security crisis the end of the qajar era in iran despite the accepted narrative of decline was in fact an occasion of modern and forward thinking nationalism iran developed an imperial nationalism which was informed by its experiences under british and russian hegemony and the absorption of western modern ideas and practices and which now looked towards a future as a sovereign and independent state within the foundational framework of its previous empire emboldened by post wwi notions of self determination and the development of international institutions devoted to peace iran spearheaded its new found diplomacy by sending a delegation to the peace talks in paris in 1919 this book shows how iran s immediate post war diplomacy came about the conduct of iran s delegation to paris frustrations with the anglo persian agreement and ultimately how iran s progress became the victim of british imperialism throwing a spotlight on an under researched period of iranian history it will be of interest to readers of iranian history and those interested in the paris peace conference of 1919
