the 4th of july 1954 marks a crucial event in german history with a 3 2 victory over a hungarian team that had not been beaten for four whole years west germany had won the f i f a world cup for the first time helmut rahn s winning goal instantly revived the spirit of an entire country that not even a decade before had experienced huge devastation in the second world war and a general sentiment that we are somebody again began to overlie the whole population this triumph went on to be remembered as the miracle of bern in 2003 german director s nke wortmann in collaboration with the german football association d f b was the first to attempt a full reconstruction of this event in the extent of a feature film while there had been a certain fear that wortmann might destroy what had already become a myth in the minds of many germans he himself believed that the film was necessary in order to keep the legend alive for a younger generation who had no direct connection to or never even heard of this renowned event in the end wortmann s film the miracle of bern drew more than three million people to the box office thus making it one of the most successful films of 2003 over the whole of europe even though some journalists sharply criticized it as being the most american german film of all time in their opinion wortmann s predominant concern was to emphasize the mythical character of west germany s sporting triumph this was something that had never been attempted before in german cinema but of which there are plenty examples in what might be called the classic american sports film of the 1980s in this regard however most reviews remain rather vague therefore this study is aimed to provide a closer analysis of the subject matter concentrating on the comparison of the miracle of bern to three successful 1980s u s sports films namely field of dreams 1989 the natural 1984 and hoosiers 1986 furthermore i would like to suggest possib

the us government launched the european recovery programme otherwise known as the marshall plan in order to save war torn europe from collapse in 1948 yet while much is known about the economic side of the marshall plan the extensive film campaign that accompanied it has been largely overlooked until now the american marshall plan film campaign and the europeans is the first book to explore the use of the marshall plan films and importantly their distribution and reception across europe the study examines every available film the 170 that remain from the 200 estimated to have been made and looks at how they were designed to instil hope argue the case for economic restructuring and persuade the europeans of the superiority of the liberal capitalist system the book goes on to reason that the films served as a powerful weapon in the cultural cold war but that the european audiences were by no means passive victims of the us propaganda effort maria fritsche discusses the marshall plan films in the context of countries across western northern and southern europe covering the majority of the 17 european countries that participated in the plan in the process the book incorporates 70 images and utilises a vast number of archival sources to explore the strategies the us adopted to sway the minds of the europeans the problems they encountered in the process and not least the varied responses of the european audiences it is a vital study for any scholar or student keen to know more about postwar recovery in europe the legacy of the second world war or america s relationship with europe in the 20th century
