In 2018, almost half of all vehicles made in North America were produced at foreign-owned plants, and the sector was on track to monopolize the market. Despite this, the industry has been overlooked compared with its domestic counterpart. Both in scholarship and popular memory, redressing this neglect. America's Other Automakers provides a new history of the foreign-owned auto sector, the first to extensively draw on archival sources and to articulate the human agency of participants, including workers, managers, and industry recruiters. Timothy J. Minchin challenges the view that the industry's growth primarily reflected incentives stressing human agency and the complexity of individual stories. Instead, deeply human in its approach, the book also explores the industry's impact on grassroots communities, showing that it had more costs than supporters acknowledged. Drawing on a wide range of primary and secondary sources, America's Other Automakers uncovers significant tensions over unionization, reports of discriminatory hiring, and unease about the industry's rapid growth. Critically exploring seven large assembly facilities and their impact on the communities in which they were built.

The giant conflagration of the First World War created the world we live in today, and its history is replete with stirring battles, mind-boggling strategies, and geopolitical manoeuvring. However, the real story was lived in the trenches of Europe and the lonely households of those left behind. The stories of this period are full of tragedy, anger, and loss, but also inspirational courage. This special five-book bundle presents some of these stories: from brave Canadian contributions to the battlefields at Ypres and Amiens to the specific untold story of Canada's unheralded 58th Division to an analysis of the myth and legend of air ace Billy Bishop to the voice of one single soldier, Deward Barnes, told through his diary. These books provide new and enlightening perspectives on the war. Amiens: Hell in Flanders Fields. It made you think of home. The Making of Billy Bishop: Second to None.
