Eric Drooker is the author of two graphic novels. Flood a novel in pictures winner of the American Book Award and Blood Song a silent ballad. He collaborated with beat poet Allen Ginsberg on the underground classic Illuminated Poems. His provocative art has appeared on countless posters and book covers and his hard-edged graphics are a familiar sight on street corners throughout the world. Eric Drooker is a third-generation New Yorker born and raised on Manhattan Island. His paintings are frequently seen on covers of The New Yorker and hang in various art collections throughout the U.S. and Europe.

Flood is the story of a city dweller in the last days of the twentieth century. Part autobiography, part fantasy, Flood tells the tale of a post-industrial native of his hopes, dreams, and fears of his survival in a world of concrete, metal, and plastic. Of his passionate vision of modern civilization and its effect upon the human soul. Back cover.

One out of every hundred adults in the U.S. is in prison. This book provides a crash course in what drives mass incarceration, the human and community costs, and how to stop the numbers from going even higher. Collected in this volume are the three comic books published by the Real Cost of Prisons project. The stories and statistical information in each comic book are thoroughly researched and documented. Prison Town paying the price tells the story of how the financing and site locations of prisons affects the people of rural communities in which prison are built. It also tells the story of how mass incarceration affects people of urban communities where the majority of incarcerated people come from. Prisoners of the war on drugs includes the history of the war on drugs, mandatory minimums, how racism creates harsher sentences for people of color, stories of how the war on drugs works against women, three strikes laws, obstacles to coming home after incarceration, and how mass incarceration destabilizes neighborhoods. Prisoners of a hard life women and their children includes stories about women trapped by mandatory sentencing and the costs of incarceration for women and their families. Also included are alternatives to the present system, a glossary, and footnotes. Over 125,000 copies of the comic books have been printed and more than 100,000 have been sent to people who are incarcerated to their families and to organizers and activists throughout the country. The book includes a chapter with descriptions of how the comix have been put to use in the work of organizers and activists in prison and in the free world by ESL teachers, high school teachers, college professors, students, and health care providers throughout the country. The demand for the comix is constant and the ways in which they are being used are inspiring.
