develops a new framework for working in schools that helps educators make informed decisions about change at individual classroom curricular and school levels on behalf of gender equity addresses the issue of understanding the impact of education on the two sexes and looks at responsibility for creating gender fair environments organising work and creating environments for learning the book draws on a two year study into the role that gender played as three catholic high schools prepared to move from single sex to coeducation it does not weigh the advantages of single sex against coeducative approaches but studies gender in a setting where the participants consciousness of gender issues was heightened faculty and administration were formally and informally discussing gender concepts and students were talking about male and female issues the book shows that the combination of leadership staff and curricular awareness and an understanding of gender fair and gender affirmative practices can serve to improve institutional effectiveness and lead to higher levels of student achievement in the updated edition of Smarter Budgets, Smarter Schools, Nathan Levenson proposes fresh strategies for more efficient equitable resource allocation within school districts. Budgets, according to Levenson, can be a surprisingly powerful lever for improved student achievement outcomes and equity. Readers of this revised edition will find practical advice for funding equity initiatives and social-emotional services among other student needs. Levenson also discusses how to accommodate common necessary school expenses and district improvement measures such as capital purchases, personnel costs, and campus renovations within tight funding models. The key is creativity. Levenson invites readers to shift their mindsets and embrace innovative ideas for using limited resources strategically. An indispensable guide, Smarter Budgets, Smarter Schools delivers proven successful practices for school leaders, superintendents, central office leaders, building principals, and school board members who hope to make smarter, better-informed financial decisions and stretch declining district budgets. It outlines budget management tactics for working around financial constraints brought on by shrinking tax revenues, rising health care and pension costs, and increased special education needs. The book also addresses how to manage declining or increasing enrollment numbers throughout this useful and timely work. Levenson provides real-world examples, critical worksheets, and actionable suggestions to help decision makers apply these concepts and realize a greater academic return on their investments.

This book provides an overview of current K-12 courses and programs offered in the United States as correspondence study or via such electronic delivery systems as satellite cable or the Internet.
