success in negotiation is not a matter of chance but the result of careful planning and specialized skills some of these skills are inborn others need to be learnt in this book the social scientist and economist professor dr raymond saner draws on his long years of experience as a negotiation adviser teacher trainer researcher and university lecturer to show that twothirds of negotiation practice is learnable yet very few people are specifically trained in this everyday task without sacrificing scientific accuracy professor saner offers a highly readable and fascinating guide to the subject in so doing he does not limit himself to the over simplified tips generally put out on successful bargaining in every imaginable situation rather he treats the different aspects of negotiation practice in a way that is useful to both academics and practitioners such that the general laws and principles gradually become evident as and of themselves the aim of this approach is to reveal the essence of negotiation through the experience of both the author and the reader such an understanding of the processes involved in negotiation is of far greater practical value than a mere collection of recipes with no discussion of the underlying theory while the most comprehensive treatment of the theory without reference to its application in practice would be only half the story thus the text is supplemented by a series of illustrative examples and case studies from the business political ngo and international organization arenas plus some seventy figures and tables with all this the author has paid considerable attention to writing a text that is both entertaining to read and rigorous in content

Richard Greenham was one of the most important and respected figures among the Elizabethan clergy. His contemporaries described him as the founder of a previously unknown pastoral art, the cure of cases of conscience. Despite his fame in the Elizabethan period as a model pastor, pioneer in reformed casuistry and founder of one of the first rectory seminaries, scholars have made little use of his life and works in their study of Elizabethan religious life. This study restores Richard Greenham to the central place he held in the development of Elizabethan reformed parochial ministry. The monograph length introduction includes a biography, an analysis of his pastoral style and a study of his approach to curing cases of conscience. The transcription of Rylands English Manuscript 524, cross-referenced with the published editions of the sayings, offers a useful source to scholars who wish to study the collecting and framing process of the humanist pedagogical tradition. The selection of early published works includes Greenham's unfinished catechism, treatises on the Sabbath and marriage, and advice on reading scripture and educating children.
