the ministry of defence announced in the summer of 2010 that it had a funding gap of 38 billion over the next ten years as part of the government s efforts to reduce the deficit the department also needs to reduce its annual spending by 7 5 in real terms by 2015 it intends to achieve a significant proportion of its required savings by reducing its civilian personnel by 29 000 and its military personnel by 25 000 which it estimates will save 4 1 billion between 2011 and 2015 the department is currently enacting a transformation programme to change its way of working in order to deliver on the strategic defence and security review priorities with fewer staff however the department has put plans in place to implement reductions in its workforce before it has finalised its new operating model the operating model will set out how the department will meet its objectives in the future but its reductions in workforce will be well advanced before the model is agreed there is concern that plans to reduce the workforce have been determined more by the need to cut costs than by considering how to deliver its strategic objectives and that there is a risk of further skills gaps developing this could make the department increasingly reliant on external expertise with consultancy expenditure having already grown from 6

state judicial elections are governed by a unique set of rules that enforce longstanding norms of judicial independence by limiting how judicial candidates campaign these rules have been a key part of recent debates over judicial elections and have been the subject of several u s supreme court cases regulating judicial elections provides the first accounting of the efficacy and consequences of such rules c scott peters re frames debates over judicial elections by shifting away from all or nothing claims about threats to judicial independence and focusing instead on the trade offs inherent in our checks and balances system in doing so he is able to examine the costs and benefits of state ethical restrictions peters finds that while some parts of state codes of conduct achieve their desired goals others may backfire and increase the politicization of judicial elections moreover modest gains in the protection of independence come at the expense of the effectiveness of elections as accountability mechanisms these empirical findings will inform ongoing normative debates about judicial elections
