teruyo nogami was a relative newcomer to film production when hired as a continuity script assistant on akira kurosawa s rashomon a witness to its filming and its near destruction in a fire over the next fifty years she worked on all the master s films ikiru seven samurai kagemusha and dreams no one was more closely involved in kurosawa s productions and in this memoir charmingly illustrated with her own sketches nogami writes candidly about the director s energy creativity and his famous rages telling the inside story on how so many classics of world cinema were made teruyo nogami was akira kurosawa s script supervisor throughout his career more importantly she was his loyal assistant and supporter during both the good and bad moments of his life she is an extraordinary woman and these memories are a path to understanding the temperament and genius of one of the few geniuses of cinematic history it s not uncommon for a film director to have made one or two great films but kurosawa was able to create many masterpieces in many styles set in both modern and classic times so the opportunity to know this artist through the lucid eyes of a long time collaborator is a privilege and an opportunity nogami san s salty personality is perfect to show his many sides not always flattering which is essential in grasping him this book is a treasury of stories and a key to the great body of cinematic work of akira kurosawa francis ford coppola if you re interested in movies then you re interested in the work of akira kurosawa teruyo nogami was by kurosawa s side for almost 50 years as he quietly and sometimes not so quietly revolutionized the very grammar of cinema this is a wonderfully intimate and beautifully written portrait of one of the greatest filmmakers who ever lived which makes it essential reading martin scorsese sure to become a classic memoir essential for our understanding of one of the greatest filmmakers of the 20th century the japan times in early twentieth century motion picture houses offensive stereotypes of african americans were as predictable as they were prevalent watermelon eating chicken thievery savages with uncontrollable appetites sambo and zip coon were all representations associated with african american people most of these caricatures were rendered by whites in blackface few people realize that from 1915 through 1929 a number of african american film directors worked diligently to counter such racist definitions of black manhood found in films like d w griffith s the birth of a nation the 1915 epic that glorified the ku klux klan in the wake of the film s phenomenal success african american filmmakers sought to defend and redefine black manhood through motion pictures gerald butters s comprehensive study of the african american cinematic vision in silent film concentrates on works largely ignored by most contemporary film scholars african american produced and directed films and white independent productions of all black features using these race movies to explore the construction of masculine identity and the use of race in popular culture he separates cinematic myth from historical reality the myth of the euro american controlled cinematic portrayal of black men versus the actual black male experience through intense archival research butters reconstructs many lost films expanding the discussion of race and representation beyond the debate about good and bad imagery to explore the construction of masculine identity and the use of race as device in the context of western popular culture he particularly examines the filmmaking of oscar micheaux the most prolific and controversial of all african american silent film directors and creator of the recently rediscovered within our gates the legendary film that exposed a virtual litany of white abuses toward blacks black manhood on the silent screen is unique in that it takes contemporary and original film theory applies it to the distinctive body of african american independent films in the silent era and relates the meaning of these films to larger political social and intellectual events in american society by showing how both white and black men have defined their own sense of manhood through cinema it examines the intersection of race and gender in the movies and offers a deft interweaving of film theory american history and film history
