this book is a small anthology each chapter a kind of meditation on poetry and psychoanalysis on a poem sometimes two on poetry in general on thought itself the poems are beautiful some are contemporary some are classical and well worth a reader's attention the motive for metaphor is the title of a short poem of wallace stevens in which he says he is happy with the subtleties of experience he likes what he calls the half colours of quarter things as opposed to the certainties the hard primary reds and blues to grasp and make sense of what is elusive and beautiful that is for the essential and puzzling condition of poetry we are obliged to make metaphors the same is perhaps true of psychoanalysis this is the essential argument of the book the chapters were originally poetry columns that the author wrote for psychologist psychoanalyst and division review both journals of the division of psychoanalysis of the american psychological association this book explores the discipline of psychology through in depth dialogues with scholars who have lived at the turbulent edges of mainstream psychology in the usa and who have challenged the most cherished theoretical frameworks it includes researchers whose work has been widely esteemed in recent decades but has ultimately not been taken up to reconstitute the theoretical direction of the field this volume chronicles perspectives from select scholars on the current states of their respective areas of the field their understanding of how their work has been metabolized and their concerns about the conceptual frames that currently set the theoretical boundaries of the discipline these authors demand a reinterpretation of thresholds to allow for a less monological emphasis in the adoption of particular frameworks and to demonstrate historical social economic and political consequences of their chosen frameworks the contents of the volume will assist theoreticians and clinicians in their understanding of how particular kinds of knowledge are determined accepted and produced in the field at large

what is it like to be a working psychoanalyst and what is it like to be held in the mind of one these were the questions that led winer and malawista to interview seventeen notable analysts from around the world who s behind the couch the heart and the mind of the psychoanalyst explores the analyst s mind at work not so much from a theoretical perspective but rather from the complexities and richness inherent in every moment to moment clinical encounter as analysts we are all continually challenged to find what might work best with a particular patient yet we don t often hear senior analysts share their personal struggles feelings and sensibilities to understand the internal experience of analysts the authors posed questions such as what is it like for analysts to manage rough spots to lose ground and try to recapture it to feel appreciated and then to feel devalued to feel betrayed to feel responsibility for someone s life while working to maintain their own balance drawing on deep reserves of experience and theoretical and research knowledge nancy mcwilliams presents a fresh perspective on psychodynamic supervision in this highly instructive work mcwilliams examines the role of the supervisor in developing the therapist s clinical skills giving support helping to formulate and monitor treatment goals and providing input on ethical dilemmas filled with candid clinical examples the book addresses both individual and group supervision special attention is given to navigating personality dynamics power imbalances and various dimensions of diversity in the supervisory dyad mcwilliams guides mentors and mentees alike to optimize this unique relationship as a resource for lifelong professional learning and growth
