nothing is to be gained after a war by the punishment of the vanquished by the victors even if the vanquished have been to blame for the war itself it now seems more probable than ever that for victors to assert after a war the war guilt of the vanquished serves but to disguise the real sources of international disturbance possibly it is because the western victors in 1919 did not recognize the moral basis of international relations that war returned to europe and to the world in 1939 possibly it is because the western victors again in 1945 did not recognize the moral basis of those relations that the world was treated to the spectacle of victors justice a k a the nuremberg trial and one more great war had ended without leading men s feet into the way of peace for all of the recent debates over the methods and theoretical underpinnings of the historical profession scholars and laypeople alike still frequently think of history in terms of storytelling accordingly historians and theorists have devoted much attention to how historical narratives work illuminating the ways they can bind together events shape an argument and lend support to ideology from ancient greece to modern day bestsellers the studies gathered here offer a wide ranging analysis of the textual strategies used by historians they show how in spite of the pursuit of truth and objectivity the ways in which historians tell their stories are inevitably conditioned by their discursive contexts the constitution of the republic of ghana 1992 in particular is a landmark constitution in the sense that it purports to provide for all situations that human experience could call to mind it also endeavours to provide for possible situations that can be anticipated this is quite understandable because life in this age is so complex that reliance on only scientific knowledge and method or what can be proved alone is not enough the late twentieth century world was overwhelmed with a shocking fact that human beings were detonating themselves in the middle east in what has come to be commonly known as suicide bombing nigeria is a federation while ghana is a unitary republic both however derive their common experiences in governance from britain as well as empirical occurrences it is in this context that all can view these constitutional provisions as well as their backgrounds readers are implored to look at the issues discussed in this work without prejudices my paramount aim is to set the records straight and not to denigrate i also aim at creating awareness so that no tyrannical dictator should get an opportunity to rise up again in ghana any day it has to be admitted that there is something nasty about the human species the tendency to be absolutely domineering to the exclusion and the consideration of other people s views or interests a situation which should not be allowed to manifest in persons trusted with top leadership positions in governance that is what successive constitutional arrangements in ghana and nigeria especially in the former have sought to achieve
