a foreman set in his ways and a hardheaded journalist with a mind of her own can't abide by the conditions set forth in her father's will but they also can't abide with the notion of being in the same country much less the same ranch foreman Lewis Sutton's been like a son to Richard Reed except he's not his son so when Richard dies and Lewis has to contact his estranged daughters to come claim the ranch that Lewis loves he's left with a bitter taste in his mouth sure that the estranged princesses from the east coast will send a lawyer to sell the property Lewis finds himself in the unenviable position of knowing he'll lose the only home he's ever known Molly Reed's got a good life in Baltimore she's just taken a position that she's been pursuing for what seems like forever a journalist spot she's been trying to get that job for so long and she's written her heart out to get it she can't even use her own name she can't even conduct interviews she's had to ask her friend Cory Weston to go to the interviews and ask the questions she comes up with while she plays secretary and takes notes Cory's in love with her so he'd agree to just about anything she tells Cory she'll be back and she has to go settle some affairs at her father's ranch she doesn't know the conditions yet little do either Molly or Lewis know the conditions of the will are that Richard's daughters must live on the ranch for a year before doing anything with it then there are more conditions but the lawyer won't tell anyone what those are until the year is up

Sarah Bay Cheng offers an examination of Gertrude Stein's drama within the history of the theatrical and cinematic avant-gardes

In the summer of 1980 Dave Foreman along with four conservationist colleagues founded the millenarian movement Earth First a provocative counterculture that ultimately hoped for the fall of industrial civilization the movement emerged in response to rapid commercial development of the American wilderness the Earth should come first was a doctrine that championed both biocentrism an emphasis on maintaining the Earth's full complement of species and biocentric equality the belief that all species are equal Martha Lee was successful in gaining extraordinary access to information about the movement as well as interviews with its members while following Earth First's development and methods she illustrates the inherent instability and the dangers associated with all
