in recent years parents and teachers have become increasingly concerned about bullying in schools and bullying has attracted significant attention as people seek explanations and solutions despite this attention there is little discussion about homophobic and transphobic bullying in Canadian high schools Get That Freak fills that gap by exploring the experiences of bullying among youth who identify or are identified as queer through interviews with recent high school graduates in British Columbia Haskell and Burtch share stories of physical verbal and emotional harassment and offer important insights into the negative outcomes that result from being bullied challenging the familiar image of these youth as helpless victims this book also recognizes positive outcomes moments of resistance friendship and inner strength taking the lead from the youth the authors make recommendations for challenging homophobic and transphobic bullying in high schools and for supporting students who experience this form of harassment in this engaging and enlightening book youth share their feelings of rage and hurt joy and triumph as they reminisce about the experience of being queer in high school book jacket fairness and equality are basic British values a litmus test for any society that upholds those values is how far it protects even the most marginalised groups Britain has been among the countries going furthest in recognising lesbian gay and bisexual rights but we are still failing this test in respect of trans people despite welcome progress high levels of transphobia are experienced by individuals on a daily basis including in the provision of public services with serious results about half of young trans people and a third of trans adults attempt suicide the recent deaths in custody of two trans women and the case of a trans woman who was placed in a men's prison are particularly stark illustrations of the issues the Gender Recognition Act 2004 was pioneering but is now dated its medicalised approach pathologises trans identities and runs contrary to the dignity and personal autonomy of applicants the government must update the act in line with the principle of gender self-declaration trans people feel strongly that the provision on spousal consent under the Marriage (Same Sex Couples) Act 2013 gives spouses an effective veto on gender recognition however marriage is a legal contract between two consenting parties the terms of which cannot be changed without the consent of both we do though take very seriously the possibility that this provision may be used by spouses with malicious intent protection for trans people under the Equality Act 2010 was a huge step forward however the terms gender reassignment and transsexual in the act are outdated and misleading and may not cover wider members of the trans community the protected characteristic should be amended to that of gender identity
