in this collection of trenchant essays and interviews istván mészáros the world's preeminent marxist philosopher and winner of the 2008 libertador award for critical thought the bolivar prize lays bare the exploitative structure of modern capitalism he argues with great power that the world's economies are on a social and ecological precipice and that unless we take decisive action to radically transform our societies we will find ourselves thrust headfirst into barbarism and environmental catastrophe mészáros however is no pessimist he believes that the multiple crises of world capitalism will encourage the working class to demand center stage in the construction of a new system of production and distribution designed to meet human needs rather than serve the relentless pursuit of profit a struggle which is already underway in places such as venezuela as john bellamy foster says in the foreword to this indispensable book today the structural crisis of capital provides the historical setting for a new revolutionary movement for social emancipation in which developments normally taking centuries would flit by like phantoms in decades or even years but the force for such necessary vital change remains with the people themselves and rests on humanity's willingness to constitute itself as both subject and object of history through the collective struggle to create a just and sustainable world this mészáros insists constitutes the unprecedented challenge and burden of our historical time today when it seems like everything has been privatized when austerity is too often seen as an economic or political problem that can be solved through better policy and when the idea of moral values has been commandeered by the right how can we re imagine the forces used as weapons against community solidarity ecology and life itself in this stirring call to arms max haiven argues that capitalism has colonized how we all imagine and express what is valuable looking at the decline of the public sphere the corporatization of education the privatization of creativity and the power of finance capital in opposition to the power of the imagination and the growth of contemporary social movements haiven provides a powerful argument for creating an anti capitalist commons capitalism is not in crisis it is the crisis and moving beyond it is the only key to survival crucial reading for all those questioning the imposition of austerity and hoping for a fairer future beyond it the whole chain of microcredit to provide the answers to these questions in doing so the authors highlight the diversity of crises both in intensity and in nature while also shedding light on a diversity of causes be it microcredit organizations unprepared for massive growth saturated local economies or greedy investors and shareholders attracted by profits crucially the authors demonstrate that microcredit is not a monolithic project and the crises should also be analysed in the light of national histories and policies an original and necessary intervention in what has become one of the most contentious topics within the development world
