this volume is the sequel to karl schefold's myth and legend in early greek art and the second in his ambitious project to trace the representation of the greek myths in greek art from the beginnings down to the hellenistic period the study of archaic greece c 750 480 bc is being transformed by exciting discoveries and interpretations in fourteen original studies from a distinguished international cast this book explores many aspects of a rapidly changing greek world detailed re interpretation of archaeological material reveals diversity in patterns of settlement sanctuaries and burial practices and shows motivations underlying the expanding exchange of goods and the settlement of new communities local studies of archaeology and iconography revise our image of the peculiarity of spartan society and east greek cult texts from homer and hesiod to a newly found poem of simonides are given fresh interpretations and there are new studies of developments in maritime warfare the roles of literacy and law making in crete the emergence of a less violent greek life style and the articulation of political thought studies of the ancient greek world have typically focused on the life histories of elite males as the group that has made the most distinct mark on ancient greek literature art and material culture as a result the voices of foreigners the physically impaired the impoverished and the generally disenfranchised have been silent which has substantially complicated the creation of a historical narrative of these marginalised groups to address this lacuna previous research has turned to the limited evidence found in literature and material culture to reconstruct societal attitudes toward disenfranchised peoples this book departs from that approach by primarily considering the skeletal remains and burial contexts of the individuals themselves drawing upon literary artistic material and biological evidence it sheds new light on groups of individuals who were typically relegated to the periphery of greek society in the late archaic and classical periods offering the first comprehensive treatment of the biological evidence for marginality in the ancient greek world this book argues that intersectionality was the driving factor behind social marginalisation in the late archaic and classical greek world
