originally published in 1921 this book contains the french text of five of balzac's most well known short stories le curé de tours je sus christ en flandre le chef d'œuvre inconnu l'auberge rouge and la messe de l'athée the collection is introduced by tilley's analysis of balzac as an author of short stories and the ways in which the short stories fit into his wider works this book will be of value to anyone with an interest in balzac or french literature in 2013 the nobel prize for literature was for the first time awarded to a short story writer and to a canadian alice munro the award focused international attention on a genre that had long been thriving in canada particularly since the 1960s this book traces the development and highlights of the english language canadian short story from the late 19th century up to the present the history as well as the theoretical approaches to the genre are covered with in depth examination of exemplary stories by prominent writers such as margaret atwood and alice munro this book looks beyond fidelity to emphasize how each adaptation of d.h. lawrence's short stories functions as a creative response to a text foregrounding the significance of its fluidity, transmediality and genre. the adaptations analysed range from the first to the most recent and draw attention to the fluidity of textual sources, the significance of generic conventions and space in film, the generic potentialities latent within lawrence's tales and the evolving nature of adaptation by engaging with recent advances in adaptation theory to discuss the evolving critical reception of the author's work and the role of the reader. this book provides a fresh forward-looking approach to lawrence studies.

the philosophical contexts of sartre's the wall and other stories stories of bad faith presents a philosophical analysis of all five stories in sartre's short story collection kevin w sweeney argues that each of the five stories has its own philosophical idea or problem that serves as the context for the narrative sartre constructs each story as a reply to the philosophical issue in the context and as support for his position on that issue in the opening story the wall sartre uses the constant kant debate to support his view that the story's protagonist is responsible for his ally's death the room presents in narrative form sartre's criticism that the freudian censor is acting in bad faith in erostratus sartre opposes descartes's claim in his hats and coats example that we recognize the humanity of others by using our reason in intimacy sartre again opposes a cartesian position this time the view that our feelings reveal our emotions sartre counters that cartesian view by showing that the two women in the story act in bad faith because they do not distinguish their feelings from their emotions the last story the childhood of a leader shows how the protagonist acts in bad faith in trying to resolve the question of who he is by appealing to the view that one's roots in nature can provide one with a substantial identity the stories are unified by showing the characters in all five narratives engaged in different acts of bad faith the philosophical contexts of sartre's the wall and other stories is written for scholars interested in jean paul sartre's early literary and philosophical work as well as for students interested in sartre and twentieth century french literature
