in recent years there has been increased attention paid to the importance of assessment in geographical education the chosen subject for this book assessment is an important tool for collecting information about student learning and for providing timely data to inform key stakeholders including students teachers parents and policymakers to be effective assessment needs to be valid reliable and fair validity is about ensuring that we assess what we claim we are assessing reliability is about measuring performance and understanding in a consistent way without validity and reliability assessment is unlikely to provide equitable opportunities for students to demonstrate what they know and can do as geography educators it is therefore important that we identify the core concepts and skills in geography that we want students to master we need a clear understanding of what the progression of learning looks like for each concept and skill so we can develop fit for purpose assessments that track and improve student learning while there is a substantial literature on evidence based assessment in secondary school contexts research exploring best practice assessment in geography is rare this is a concern given the distinctive nature of geography and the important role of assessment in the learning process this scholarly collection seeks to address this issue by connecting research in educational assessment with the domain of geography the chapters are written by leading researchers in geographical education from across the globe these chapters provide examples of innovation through the collective voices of geography teacher educator scholars from across australia usa south korea germany switzerland and singapore what unifies the work in this book is that each chapter focuses on a key feature of the discipline of geography providing scholarly examples of evidence based practices for assessing student s knowledge and skills i am very pleased to have been asked by rod gerber to provide a preface to such a book not least because of the twenty four chapters eight are written by former students or colleagues with whom i have worked in the past and whom i still meet at conferences on geographical education it is with a certain pride and joy that i note the progress which has been made in geographical education both in its day to day teaching and in research in the twenty years following the end of my term of office as chair of the commission on geographical education of the international geographical union cgeiug my successors joe stoltman hartwig haubrich rod gerber and now lea houtsonen have done much and are continuing to work hard to foster the development of geographical education this book is proof if proof were needed that the international collaboration in this field is alive and well with contributions coming from all the continents except antarctica it would be a moribund subjectthat remained unaffected in one way or another by developments on the great world stage as fairgrieve 1926 would have put it and as rod gerber shows the issues of globalisation of cultural encounters of differing value systems of new technologies of variable economic development and of environmental quality all feature as topics which influence and are influenced by geographical education second edition of a best selling text which has been trusted by students for over 3 years encompassing all the essential skills needed for gcse geography all material has been updated and contain new enquiry based examples more advanced statistical techniques and a section in ict use reflecting the current methods of geography teaching students will progress smoothly with the great variety of potential projects involved pupils can benefit from the experience of the respected authors who teach examine and moderate pupils will achieve higher quality project work using the book s coursework suggestions and skill based exam questions includes section reviews and other bibliographical material originally published in 1965 and with a second edition in 1970 building upon the original two madingley hall seminars for teachers of non university geography in 1965 this book presents an updated research picture of the 1970 transatlantic perspective answering the questions what is happening in geography and what impact does this have on school geography this provided a real link for students who were then making the increasingly difficult transition from school to university geography originally receiving a hostile reaction from british journals the book s diagnosis and prognosis were a forerunner of developments in methodological changes of the discipline this work collects a series of essays delineating geographic concepts in terms of the philosophic underpinnings assessment of the geomorphic system climatology and social economic and historical changing trends techniques are reviewed including quantitative methods for geomorphology and social geography fieldwork both in urban areas and land use surveys and finally in physical planning final analyses examine and contrast the teaching methods and courses in american and british high schools colleges and universities this book is aimed at teachers who wish to improve their professional practice and will help them to think about current practice not only in terms of skills and competences to be developed but also areas of knowledge to be enriched the model of knowledge bases presented is a valuable framework for reflecting on practice and for analyzing professional development needs the book is therefore an ideal text for teachers taking courses that may lead towards an advanced qualification in teaching or who are undertaking in service training and action research programs teachers approaching threshold assessment will find the book useful in reflecting on the quality of their teaching
