doing business in the country can be surprisingly complex in recognition of this and out of a desire to attract investors to the land of her birth salz has put together an impressive guide that seeks to demystify the process john e rope a compelling case for anyone considering developing a business in the fourth most populated country in the world j w bankston the work is less about highlighting the advantages of investing in indonesia than a compendium of requirements readers will learn about the steps to for instance acquire land or obtain necessary licenses j w bankston electricity cannot be cost effectively stored even for short periods of time consequently wholesale electricity prices vary widely across hours of the day with peak prices frequently exceeding off peak prices by a factor of ten or more most analyses of energy efficiency policies ignore this variation focusing on total energy savings without regard to when those savings occur in this paper we demonstrate the importance of this distinction using novel evidence from a rebate program for air conditioners in southern california we estimate electricity savings using hourly smart meter data and show that savings tend to occur during hours when the value of electricity is high this significantly increases the overall value of the program especially once we account for the large capacity payments received by generators to guarantee their availability in high demand hours we then compare this estimated savings profile with engineering based estimates for this program as well as a variety of alternative energy efficiency investments the results illustrate a surprisingly large amount of variation in economic value across investments in the past twenty years or more there has been a growing interest among philosophers and theologians alike in the transcendentals and especially in the beautiful this seems fortuitous since so much of contemporary culture is fixated in many ways on beauty on what might be called a superficial or man made beauty intent on outward appearance with little or no concern for the human person s interiority and distinctive nature the ancients and the medievals on the contrary were sensitive not only to the beauty of nature and art but also to beauty as intelligible that is to the beauty of moral harmony and of metaphysical splendor while the question of whether the beautiful is in fact a transcendental aspect of being continues to be a subject of dispute in contemporary scholarship the relationship between the beautiful and the good has been accepted since ancient times and has been attended to in recent publications none of these publications however offers a systematic treatment of this relationship by drawing from the wisdom of both ancient and medieval thought in such a way as to bring together the work of scholars in this tradition beauty and the good intends therefore to make a singular contribution by presenting a richer alternative to the contemporary cult of beauty and appearance on the one hand and to the concomitant decline of real beauty on the other hand in addition to highlighting the centrality of beauty in the aristotelian account of moral virtue where virtue is kalon and virtuous actions are done for the sake of kalon an account which is found echoed in the medieval notion of intrinsic goodness bonum honestum understood as intelligible or spiritual beauty this volume will provide the metaphysical and theological grounding for beauty as influenced in part by plato and neoplatonism together with a much needed account of how we know and judge beauty and how for the recognition of true good and real beauty we need to be properly disposed the integration of philosophical and theological reflection on the nature and relationship of beauty and the good on our perception and judgment of beauty and of the good as beautiful and on the motivational role of beauty in human action has as its goal to produce a coherent volume of essays
