the theatre of richard maxwell and the new york city players has received significant international recognition over the past ten years the company has received three obies for house 1999 drummer wanted 2002 and good samaritans 2005 maxwell received a guggenheim fellowship in 2010 and has been commissioned by venues in the united states the united kingdom germany austria the netherlands france belgium and ireland although his productions generate a plethora of reviews there is a deficit of material providing a critical and sustained engagement with his work the aim of this book is to provide a critical survey of maxwell s work since 1992 including his early participation in cook county theater department touching upon the acting production and rehearsal processes of nyc player s work and maxwell s representations of space community race and gender this volume provides scholars with an important overview of a key figure in contemporary drama traditional theatre semiotics promoted a scientific approach to theatre studies albeit viewing semiotics as the unique discipline of research theatre sciences a plea for a multidisciplinary approach to theatre studies suggests instead a multi disciplinary approach including the following theoretical disciplines narratology mythology pragmatics ethics theatre irony theory of genres aesthetics semiotics theory of non verbal figures of speech rhetoric psychoanalysis reception theory history and sociology with semiotics being only one among equals these disciplines are presented from the perspective of their possible contributions to a sound methodology of theatre texts analysis traditional theatre semiotics moreover holds the view that the actual performance on stage is the genuine text of theatre instead of the play script despite this paradigmatic shift however this viewpoint has failed to produce commendable analyses of such texts the alternative presupposition put forward in this volume entails a series of novel perceptions of the theatre text and its possible impact on the experiencing spectator whose role in reading interpreting and experiencing the theatre text is not less crucial than that of the text itself this view presupposes that the theatre text is a description of a fictional world generated by the theatre medium the author also contests the age old view that a theatre fictional text reflects a simple narrative structure and suggests instead a complexity that consists of seven layers personified mythical praxical naive ironic modal and aesthetic with each one of them re structuring the previous layer professor rozik also presents and describes a semiotic layer that lends communicative capacity to the description of a fictional world and two additional metaphoric and rhetoric layers which structure the theatre experience the underlying purpose is to illustrate the application of the aforementioned disciplines to these fictional layers and eventually their joint application to entire theatre fictional texts organisation of the book reflects the structure of a university course i have read the play evelyn i keep reading the play but the play keeps on changing five neurotic actors one stressed stage manager a crazed director an invisible playwright and an escaped monkey are desperately rehearsing the world s worst play which keeps being rewritten and every rewrite is more hilariously terrible than the one before and although it really shouldn t somehow the show manages to go on stop the play is a fist biting funny send up of everything bad about bad theatre a roar out loud gem of side splitting brilliance grumpy gay critic offers a theory and methodology of performance analysis as an alternative to traditional play analysis this book carries an underlying theme that theatre performance is a descriptive text generated by the theatre medium and that the process of generating meaning takes place in the actual encounter between a theatre performance and the spectator page and stage narrows the gulf between printed page and performance to make script analysis for production or academic study more effective efficient and insightful this text discusses a method for script analysis based on the idea that plays consist of organized tension that involves the audience and organizes their response it examines the many forms of tension in plays between actor and character between the stage and the world of the play between the present and the past and between characters by looking at stage space and time and a wide range of plays from greek times to the present page and stage addresses the paradox that play scripts are not complete works of dramatic art and yet contain implicitly if not explicitly the intended performance

c l r james s the black jacobins remains one of the great works of the twentieth century and the cornerstone of haitian revolutionary studies in making the black jacobins rachel douglas traces the genesis transformation and afterlives of james s landmark work across the decades from the 1930s on examining the 1938 and 1963 editions of the black jacobins the 1967 play of the same name and james s 1936 play toussaint louverture as well as manuscripts notes interviews and other texts douglas shows how james continuously rewrote and revised his history of the haitian revolution as his politics and engagement with marxism evolved she also points to the vital significance theater played in james s work and how it influenced his views of history douglas shows the black jacobins to be a palimpsest its successive layers of rewriting renewing its call to new generations
