war torture humiliation exploitation fear futility the daily news is bleak and it's not reserved to just one corner of the globe world wide we are bombarded with graphic emotionally laden examples of inhumanity these challenges to peace and freedom have become so commonplace that public and government responses are sedate or self righteous meanwhile in more malevolent countries manipulative politicians and sadistic terrorists have become skilled at exploiting this state of affairs and we ignore it at our own peril a world ignited is about the surge of hatred that has swept the world in the last decade its myriad causes its toll in lives and human misery this condition is amplified by modern communications technology especially television and the internet and made more lethal by modern weaponry including assault rifles and rocket launchers and unprecedented tactics that strive for mass death and anguish anger is fed by economic disparities religious and cultural wars that go back centuries and deep seated feelings of defeat and humiliation the book takes aim at the bush administration for its penchant for provocative and unilateral policies that have inspired unprecedented waves of anti americanism but it also breaks new ground on both bush's unsung role in combating worldwide anti-semitism and the role of the United States as the fount of hate on the internet the authors conclude this important and timely book in a positive manner with a look at the politics of hope and what can be done to halt and even reverse this cacophony of hate

The purpose of this study is to examine the rationale of Doris Lessing's development from classical realism to mysticism and forms of science fiction and to consider the unifying motifs that appear throughout her novels in her consistent search for Sufi equilibrium the four novels selected in this study represent significant stages in Lessing's work chapter one focuses on The Grass Is Singing which represents the author's early traditionally realistic writing to show how far the preoccupations of Lessing's later novels find expression in this early work chapter two studies The Golden Notebook which marks a turning point in formal structure in lessing s canon and is selected as evidence of her interest in sufism at that early stage chapter three concentrates on the study of the memoirs of a survivor which has elicited a comparatively limited amount of criticism but which proves to be a major achievement when brought into line with sufi methods of writing chapter four considers lessing s science fiction series canopus in argos tracing sources from oriental literature a key which unlocks many areas of obscurity in the earliest times the soul was an object of interest from three points of view one of these was the religious it is clear that religious needs even in their most primitive form must lead to the development of ideas of a separate invisible being the soul another conception of the soul originates from the very primitive experience that a principle of activity is at work within the human body so long as a man lives and indeed only during this time certain vital forces are active within him which reveal themselves in perception and motion these forces are identified with the soul a third standpoint has always been present in the observations which every one must make on his own character and on that of his fellowmen this observation of one s self and others personality is psychognosis the history of the attempts at such self knowledge began in ancient times and changed when scientific investigations too precedence since however these efforts have appeared only in recent times and since we have chosen in the interest of historical objectivity to mark off our task at an earlier point it will be impossible to trace this development further introduction psycinfo database record c 2010 apa all rights reserved
