the ongoing plight of refugees and displaced persons worldwide is one of today's greatest tragedies the groups can include refugees civilians who have returned home but still need help persons displaced internally within their own countries asylum seekers and stateless people these people are vulnerable and their ability to cope is left severely compromised because the normal social safety nets are often absent women and girls can be subject to sexual violence and rape and generally drug and alcohol abuse are often rife at the same time health care services are often only minimal or non-existent the variety of complex factors within refugee camps or displaced settlements makes the people living there enormously vulnerable to HIV. Addressing HIV-related needs in the context of refugee situations requires a change in the thinking of the authorities in many countries. Asylum failure to provide the necessary interventions could be very harmful to both refugees and the surrounding host populations. In order to meet the HIV-related needs in this context, the UN High Commissioner for Refugees and UNAIDS advocate for the implementation of best practices. Suggested best practices include integrating refugee issues into national health and HIV programmes, implementing subregional initiatives, and combining funding streams.

There are an estimated 42 million people worldwide living with HIV and AIDS. In the Caribbean, the statistics are alarming. After sub-Saharan Africa, the Caribbean has a higher HIV prevalence than any other area of the world. The need to control the spread of HIV is critical. Though medical advances have been successful in slowing the progress of the disease, there remains no cure for HIV and AIDS. In challenging HIV and AIDS, the contributors/players at various levels in the education sector across the Caribbean weigh in on the value of education as a means to halt the spread of HIV and AIDS. The contributions are unique to the Caribbean experience and culture and address the root causes of the spread of the epidemic: reducing ignorance and the accompanying stigma and discrimination, as well as addressing issues of sexuality through health and family life education. In schools, identified as effective programs in addressing the epidemic.
