seminar paper from the year 2002 in the subject english language and literature studies literature grade 1 0 university of potsdam course new women in the 19th century language english abstract i m not really out to prove anything in fact it s all done tongue in cheek an imaginative reading i guess you could say this is what paul auster the character says to daniel quinn in auster s novel city of glass about his essay on don quixote the following paper on auster s novel city of glass is not written tongue in cheek but it is adventurous nonetheless based on linda hentschel s theory of pornotopical techniques of looking i will concentrate my reading of auster s text on aspects orientated towards gender space self and subjectivity i am going to take up hentschel s ideas of space especially in regard to urban space the city and also her ideas of how subjectivity is constructed along gendered lines i will try to show that although auster s text challenges and destabilizes ideas and concepts like rationality language and body it keeps to a common gender model women as characters are visibly absent from the text if they appear at all they do it marginally and only to trigger off some action staying passive themselves the text tells about different kinds of manhood all main characters are male and i think exactly this setting can only be made perhaps even unconsciously in contrast to its constructed female other so femininity becomes visible not primarily in the form of characters but in form of particular concepts i suggest that the city in city of glass which is new york serves as metonymy for different concepts of woman for example the mother the dead wife and the lover daniel quinn the main character of the novel incessantly walks the city but instead of reinforcing or even establishing a subjective position in the vast metropolis he fails completely and dissolves within the urban space as such he is not only the absol
