from the preface this book is about identity seeking movements of modern society it deals with such things as fashions fads poses ritual cultic movements recreation heroes and celebrities and crusades from the point of view of what they tell about the identity search of a mass society my view briefly is that a collective identity search is symptomatic of the fact that some modern social systems deprive people of psychological payoffs the lack of which expressed by terms such as alienation meaninglessness identity problem motivates a mass groping for activities and symbols with which to restore or find new identity people grope because they do not really know what is wrong especially when there is physical prosperity yet a sense of being cheated when mass movements become concerned with identity they develop certain characteristics such as ego screaming concern with costume and self ornamentation style rebellion concern with emotional gestures rather than practical effects adulation of heroes cultism and the like with which i shall deal such signs show that ordinary economic and political solutions are not what is wanted people feel the futility and irrelevance of such measures yet do not know quite what else to do we are surrounded with portraits from the cipher like portrait of a president on a bank note to security pass photos from images of politicians in the media to facebook from galleries exhibiting titian or leonardo to contemporary art deploying the self image as with jeff koons or cindy sherman in antiquity portraiture was of major importance in the exercise of power today it remains not only a part of everyday life but also a crucial way for artists to define themselves in relation to their environment and their contemporaries in portrayal and the search for identity marcia pointon investigates how we view and understand portraiture as a genre and how portraits function as artworks within social and political networks likeness is never a straightforward matter as we rarely have the subject of a portrait as a point of comparison featuring familiar canonical works and little known portraits portrayal seeks to unsettle notions of portraiture as an art of convention a reassuring reflection of social realities pointon invites readers to consider how identity is produced pictorially and where likeness is registered apart from in a face in exploring these issues she addresses wide ranging problems such as the construction of masculinity in dress representations of slaves and self portraiture in relation to mortality essay from the year 2012 in the subject didactics for the subject english literature works grade 2 3 university of regensburg language english abstract the beginning of the novel the buddha of suburbia by hanif kureishi already reveals the struggle for identity but what exactly is identity no one can give a clear definition on what it is we can only limit the factors that determine identity such as class gender sexual preference ethnic background and education moreover identity is bound to social norms a boy for example is expected to like football or cars whereas girls are expected to be interested in fashion and shoes if a person fails to fulfill his gender role he she is automatically seen as different and not normal this way stereotypes are formed stereotypes are fixed notions of racial identities developed over the years even though often unconsciously every person generalizes this is just how the human mind works when we see a person for the first time we immediately tend to put the other into certain categories fortunately identity is not fixed but a malleable entity constructed through social performance social performance includes your way of clothing behavior accent and much more in general it is your outer appearance combined with your gestures and facial expressions as well as your way of speaking to my mind every single person creates their own identity unconsciously on top of that nobody can judge his or her identity by himself it is judged by others not so much a text as a philosophical adventure story this book explores questions of consciousness dreams vs reality the nature of the self the search for wisdom and the meaning of life
