the intellectual and cultural battles now raging over theism and atheism conservatism and secular progressivism dualism and monism realism and antirealism and transcendent reality versus material reality extend even into the scientific disciplines this stunning new volume captures this titanic clash of worldviews among those who have thought most deeply about the nature of science and of the universe itself unmatched in its breadth and scope the nature of nature brings together some of the most influential scientists scholars and public intellectuals including three nobel laureates across a wide spectrum of disciplines and schools of thought here they grapple with a perennial question that has been made all the more pressing by recent advances in the natural sciences is the fundamental explanatory principle of the universe life and self conscious awareness to be found in inanimate matter or immaterial mind the answers found in this book have profound implications for what it means to do science what it means to be human and what the future holds for all of us one of the most stirring moments in history was when abraham lincoln issued the emancipation proclamation along with this crucial primary source readers are treated to an amazing collection of essays about the abolishment of slavery and the thirteenth amendment readers will evaluate the historical defense of slavery and its rejection reactions to lincoln s proclamation and they will learn how early supreme court rulings actually undermined this amendment s power other topics include segregation housing developments road closings america s debt to slaves immigrant labor modern day slavery and slavery in american prisons and suburbs this is an outline of indian civilization comprehensive in coverage but brief enough to be read in a few sittings it gives an overview of 5 000 years of history in south asia from the beginnings of farming cities and writing to the present it gives readers new to the topic a map of the territory and the tools to take on more advanced and specialized readings provided by publisher john v murra s lewis henry morgan lectures originally given in 1969 are the only major study of the andean avenue towards civilization collected and published for the first time here they offer a powerful and insistent perspective on the andean region as one of the few places in which a so called pristine civilization developed murra sheds light not only on the way civilization was achieved here which followed a fundamentally different process than that of mesopotamia and mesoamerica he uses that study to shed new light on the general problems of achieving civilization in any world region murra intermixes a study of andean ecology with an exploration of the ideal of economic self sufficiency stressing two foundational socioeconomic forces reciprocity and redistribution he shows how both enabled andean communities to realize direct control of a maximum number of vertically ordered ecological floors and the resources they offered he famously called this arrangement a vertical archipelago a revolutionary model that is still examined and debated almost fifty years after it was first presented in these lecture written in a crisp and elegant style and inspired by decades of ethnographic fieldwork this set of lectures is nothing less than a lost classic and it will be sure to inspire new generations of anthropologists and historians working in south america and beyond
