it is not always a comfortable position to question the position of a good majority however it is known that the majority can sometimes be wrong or see things differently it takes courage and a particularly critical mind to question the depth of the christian faith in a land seen as the future of christianity in africa as a priest with some pastoral experience both in africa and in europe the author is at home with the subject matter in this book he accepts the fact of the growing numbers in the churches but questions the depth of conviction in the face of the problems arising from the clash of values between christian faith and igbo traditional religion he maintains that if god saw enough reasons to create men differently and revealed himself differently to them he god accepts that men have different understandings of his relationship with them and that they may relate with him using what is available to them their culture and tradition for not integrating initially some of the good elements in igbo culture many igbo christians have double personality christian personality and traditional personality they are christians on sundays but traditionalists on weekdays to combat such an anomalous situation in imitation of christ s effort at completing what was lacking in the jewish religion author edwin udoye proposes radical inculcation his book equally contains many serious theological reflections such that it recommends itself to both theologians and the scholars researching on the religions of the world udoye has therefore made a very significant contribution worthy of commendation to both theological and religious studies
