The Wild East explores the social, political and environmental changes in the Great Smoky Mountains during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. This revised edition is updated with information about new research and initiatives that are restoring native plants and wildlife populations in the twenty-first century.

Through the stories of twenty-six inspiring figures from Capability Brown, Humphry Repton and Vita Sackville-West to lesser known figures and present day gardeners such as Beth Chatto and John Brookes, this book brings the colourful history of British gardening to life.

Comparing the lives and goals of two icons of black resistance, one man dreamed of a country united in true racial equality. Another saw this as a nightmare that served only the interest of wealthy white people. Both were sons of Baptist ministers. Both grew up to be icons of the civil rights movement: integration versus separation. Martin Luther King Jr. and Malcolm X have come to symbolize the two primary strands of black political thought during the civil rights movement. Much as Booker T. Washington and W. E. B. Du Bois had more than a half century earlier, as Henry Louis Gates Jr. points out in his foreword, the parallels and divergences between the two men remain striking. Britta Waldschmidt Nelson compares and contrasts these two giants in her fascinating dual biography. She offers a concise account of their lives, accomplishments and challenges in a crisp, fascinating narrative. She reveals the interconnectedness of their goals, their visions and their legacies. Most provocative, she suggests what might have been as their philosophies began to converge were it not for a pair of assassins' bullets.
