teaching is changing it is no longer simply about passing on knowledge to the next generation teachers in the twenty first century in all educational sectors have to cope with an ever changing cultural and technological environment teaching is now a design science like other design professionals architects engineers programmers teachers have to work out creative and evidence based ways of improving what they do yet teaching is not treated as a design profession every day teachers design and test new ways of teaching using learning technology to help their students sadly their discoveries often remain local by representing and communicating their best ideas as structured pedagogical patterns teachers could develop this vital professional knowledge collectively teacher professional development has not embedded in the teacher s everyday role the idea that they could discover something worth communicating to other teachers or build on each others ideas could the culture change from this unique perspective on the nature of teaching diana laurillard argues that a twenty first century education system needs teachers who work collaboratively to design effective and innovative teaching imagine a human society perhaps in pre history in which people were generally of a psychological kind with us had the use of natural language to communicate with one another but did not have any properly moral concepts in which to exhort one another to meet certain standards and to lodge related claims and complaints according to the birth of ethics the members of that society would have faced a set of pressures and made a series of adjustments in response sufficient to put them within reach of ethical concepts without any planning they would have more or less inevitably evolved a way of using such concepts to articulate desirable patterns of behavior and to hold themselves and one another responsible to those standards sooner or later they would have entered ethical space while this central claim is developed as a thesis in conjectural history or genealogy the aim of the exercise is philosophical assuming that it explains the emergence of concepts and practices that are more or less equivalent to ours the story offers us an account of the nature and role of morality it directs us to the function that ethics plays in human life and alerts us to the character in virtue of which it can serve that function the emerging view of morality has implications for the standard range of questions in meta ethics and moral psychology and enables us to understand why there are divisions in normative ethics like that between consequentialist and kantian approaches
