the concepts of leadership and the specific role of government leadership in meeting the basic needs of the people seem poorly defined in many areas of african society many people in these poor societies seem desperate and anxious for service contrary to what many external observers may seem to think as a state of contentment this creates a management dilemma why government fails to deliver despite high expectations of the electorate the case of africa was studied using ghana as an example of such societies where one can observe phenomenon from examples of traditional leadership of chiefs with certain powers but limited responsibilities that may not be clearly defined for modern development of the society while recognizing traditional leadership people in these societies find themselves with shifted locus of power and control owing loyalty and allegiance to some other elected leaders who seem not concerned about the interests of the electorate even where very high taxes are collected and people have the money to pay for services the case of ghana was examined using a qualitative case study selected businesspersons were interviewed in the accra tema metropolitan area to examine their experiences expectations and perceptions of the leadership using one indicator of business performance the quality of utility service delivery regarding water electricity telephone and garbage as well known and found by the world bank and local private enterprise foundation pef and business groups electricity and telephone services are indispensable elements of any modern business in the 1990s the facsimile machine became part of modern business to enhance data delivery in addition to voice transmission and in 2006 the internet and electronic mail have become an almost integral part of global business communication for more than ten years the needs for these business tools become more critical if businesses have to compete at the global level in free enterprise markets usually imposed by western donor and lender conditions water and garbage service not only affect health in any society but in africa poor sewage treatment and open sewage are directly related to mosquito breeding and malaria malaria was reported to kill 15 000 children under five years of age and 2 000 pregnant women in 2005 and seem to reduce the average life expectancy of people in some sectors of the nation by more than six years ghanahomepage 2006 may 12 the research study on ghana by this author showed that inefficient service delivery was found to impact about 90 of businesses in almost all sectors despite a high 73 expectation from leadership despite the call for overseas investors first dial successful completion rate of telephone transmission from california to ghana was only 4 most fax machines tried were not functional and more than 95 of the participant business managers and owners used in the study did not have regular use of the internet fifty six 56 types of leadership perceptions based on the culture evolved and were grouped into common themes and compared with a similar study in the united states of america cultural factors were explored in order to understand the challenges in ghana s socio economic development compared with euro american and asian confucian cultures this book is based on a dissertation submitted in partial fulfillment of the requirements of the phd degree at capella university s school of business and technology organization and management leadership option in june 2006 i wish to acknowledge the help of capella university as well as the supervision of dr godwin igein and dr stephen tvorik of the school of business and technology and dr kwesi ngissah of oakland california who acted as outside dissertation committee member leadership is both a field of study and a functional skill that includes a person or enterprise's capacity to control or direct other people, teams or entire organizations. Specialist research explores different perspectives comparing eastern and western approaches to leadership as well as American and European attitudes. U.S. academic contexts define leadership as a mechanism of social influence wherein an individual may mobilize the help and support of others in the accomplishment of a mutual task. Leadership studies have created theories regarding situational interaction, traits, structure, behavior, control, vision, and values. Individuality and intellect among other qualities. Leadership learning enhances the potential of individuals to perform leadership roles within a business framework. Leadership roles are those that promote the implementation of the business strategy by generating consensus, gaining the mindshare, and extending the ability of others. Leadership mantles may be formal with the appropriate authority to arrive at decisions and shoulder responsibility or maybe informal with minuscule official authority such as team members who control team participation, intent, and direction; lateral partners who should listen and bargain by influence.

Business and employee management are key subjects in business administration for decades, actually for centuries. There has been a discussion about how effective leadership of people or employees can be realized. It has always been a major concern within market-based economic systems to learn how its products and services should be designed in order to generate consumer demand. That the discussion about business and employee management is more relevant than ever is linked to the fact that leadership situations are influenced by a variety of external factors. They include, in particular, political, cultural, social, demographic, economic, and technological developments. It is therefore required for business and employee management to be adapted to those external framework conditions on a permanent basis. In former times, the assumption in mainstream leadership research was that leadership success relied on specific personal characteristics. Later on, the prevailing view was that the decisive factors in employee management lied in specific leadership behavior or leadership styles. Today's research on leadership is dominated by situation-oriented approaches providing for specific leadership concepts for specific organizational and employee-related structures. The present thesis is an attempt to bundle a variety of approaches to leadership with the aim of providing an overarching framework for concepts of a similar nature therefore the leadership concept to be developed in what follows is to be characterized by the principles of holism and sustainability the first step is to present the fundamentals of leadership and management in order to introduce key terms and concepts and provide an overview of the research on leadership chapter 3 deals with separately displaying the business and employee management approaches of various management pioneers distinguishing between early and contemporary pioneers each approach is presented in consideration of its key elements its strengths and opportunities as well as its weaknesses and limitations the fourth chapter finally is devoted to developing a holistic and sustainable leadership concept
