outstanding a great guide for teachers who want to succeed with every student they teach william glasser teachers everywhere face the daily challenge of engaging students whose knowledge skills needs and temperaments vary greatly how does a teacher establish a learning environment that supports the class as a whole while meeting the particular needs of individual students teacher jonathan c erwin believes the answer lies in offering real opportunities to students rather than throwing up the obstacles inherent in traditional discipline and motivation techniques at the heart of his approach are the five basic human needs of william glasser s choice theory survival and security love and belonging power through cooperation and competency freedom and fun by understanding and attending to these needs teachers can customize and manage a classroom environment where students learn to motivate and monitor themselves drawing on theories and practices from experts in a variety of learning techniques erwin explores each of the five basic needs to create nearly 200 adaptable strategies for teaching and classroom management at any grade level readers will find dozens of ideas for helping students make positive changes including improving their work habits connecting curriculum with individual interests opening lines of communication with teachers and other students boosting self worth through accomplishment and supporting their classmates in cooperative work erwin ties everything together in a unit guide that allows teachers to develop a classroom profile based on the needs of individual students the guide can be used with any district planning approach or curriculum for teachers seeking a win win situation in managing their classrooms the classroom of choice is an excellent aid in creating a learning environment in which students and teachers approach each day with energy and enthusiasm millions of students in the us and mexico begin their educations in one country and find themselves trying to integrate into the school system of the other as global migration increases their numbers are expected to grow and more and more teachers will find these transnational students in their classrooms the goal of the students we share is to prepare educators for this present and future reality while the us has been developing english as a second language programs for decades mexican schools do not offer such programs in spanish and neither the us nor mexico has prepared its teachers to address the educational social psychological or other personal needs of transnational students teachers know little about the circumstances of transnational students lives or histories and have little to no knowledge of the school systems of the country from which they or their family come as such they are fundamentally unprepared to equitably educate the students we share who often fall through the cracks and end their educations prematurely written by both mexican and us pioneers in the field chapters in this volume aim to prepare educators on both sides of the us mexico border to better understand the circumstances strengths and needs of the transnational students we teach with recommendations for policymakers administrators teacher educators teachers and researchers in both countries the students we share shows how preparing teachers is our shared responsibility and opportunity it describes policies classroom practices and norms of both systems as well as examples of ongoing partnerships across borders to prepare the teachers we need for our shared students to thrive once somebody had asked me how do i define a good teacher the question had left with me a corollary question as to who exactly is a good teacher well in india teachers or guru are revered as gods guru is regarded as dispeller of darkness from gu darkness and ru that which dispels thus a teacher removes the darkness of ignorance from the students mind and inculcates the thirst for knowledge they shape the lives of every individual thereby making them responsible citizens of the country i strongly believe for the nation to progress and become a developed nation teachers play the primary role excellent teachers believe that it is pupils effort and teaching quality that determine how well a child performs academically and not the ability of the child when you strive to become a good teacher and to create a good classroom four core qualities are essential knowledge the skills to convey that knowledge the ability to make the material you are teaching interesting relevant and a deep seated respect for the student without these 4 qualities the inherent aspects of good teaching will cease to exist teaching as a profession has seen a great paradigm shift from the gurukul system to the chalk and talk system currently the system has evolved to online classrooms with a blend of virtual reality augmented and mixed reality it is very important for the teacher these days to engage students effectively using various pedagogies to invoke attention and enhance the attention span of the young students teachers must be familiar with various pedagogical tools imparting high value knowledge and educate students to think critically and become decision makers of the future this book therefore focuses primarily on the 4 essentials stated above the common problems teachers face and the tips to become a better teacher and excel in the profession teaching is an art and this art can only be mastered with practice the bonus tips will also help teachers to get better and inspire more students with good online lectures available at their fingertips this generation students seek for motivators influencers and facilitators than mere teachers what kind of experiences do children need in order to grow and learn what kind of knowledge do teachers need in order to facilitate these experiences for children and what kind of experiences do teachers need to develop this knowledge a good teacher in every classroom addresses these questions by examining the core concepts and central pedagogies that should be at the heart of any teacher education program and recommends the policy changes needed to ensure that all teachers gain access to this knowledge this book is the result of a blue ribbon commission sponsored by the national academy of education
